New UAW Chief To Join March On Civil Rights

DETROIT (AP) — Leonard Woodcock—newly elected president of the United Auto Workers Union—went to Georgia today as a visible symbol that the giant union's emphasis on social action and civil rights did not die with Walter P. Reuther.

Woodcock announced shortly after his unanimous election Friday by the UAW's 24-member International Executive Board that he planned to join the "march against repression" being led through Georgia by the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The UAW's "attention to outside problems," a hallmark of 24 year Reuther's tenure, would not change, Woodcock said.

Reuther was killed in a plane crash two weeks ago.

Attends Meeting

Woodcock also broke precedent on his initial day on the job when he became the first UAW president to attend General Motors Corp.'s annual stockholders meeting.

In a news conference after being sworn in as president, Woodcock announced he would join the Georgia march today in support of blacks.

Talks About Talks

In his first speech as president, Woodcock told a meeting of the UAW's Ford Council that just because Ford was struck three years ago to win a pattern-setting contract doesn't rule that company out as possible No. 1 target in 1970 new contract negotiations.

On the other hand, he said, General Motors, was a possibility, adding that Chrysler "might well be, because it might be easier to get an agreement from the weakest."

While sales and profits of GM and Ford have been slipping, Chrysler reported a first-quarter loss.

Woodcock said agricultural implement members of the UAW are better off in several respects then auto workers: among other things a $100 vacation bonus, $75 payable at the start and $25 upon return to work.

As implement workers also get the Christmas-New Years week off with pay and there is no waiting week for supplemental unemployment benefits to cut in when layoffs occur.

He said there was no reason the same treatment should not be accorded by GM, Ford and Chrysler.

8-Cent Stamp Wins Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee is expected to vote Monday on a postal reform bill that would give the Nixon administration authority to boost first class mail rates from six to eight cents.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, said Friday the compromise bill has won tentative White House support and the panel would vote on it Monday. But he added that many changes could be made before final enactment.

McGee said the bill includes these features:

—Authority for the administration to raise first class letter rates from six to eight cents—a 33 per cent increase. This, however, can be accomplished only if the administration first enacts a 33 per cent hike in second class (newspapers and magazines) and third class (chiefly advertising material).

—An additional 8 per cent pay hike for the 725,000 postal employes. A six per cent pay increase for postal and other government workers has already been approved by Congress.

—Creation of an independent agency run by a nine-member board of governors named by the President to administer the Post Office Department. The board would select a postmaster general who would no longer be a Cabinet member.

—Authorize the President to name a five-member commission to fix postal rates.

—Permit the new agency to work out collective bargaining agreements with postal unions.

Nixon reportedly favors the first class mail rate increase to help pay the largest part of the $1.5 billion annual deficit expected for the department in fiscal 1971.

Hit By Ball, Boy, 9, Dies

GAYLORD (AP) — Nine-year-old Timothy Alexander died Friday after being hit in the chest with a line-drive during a Little League baseball practice in Gaylord.

Witnesses told police the boy had been playing first base when a "screaming" line drive struck him in the chest. They said Timothy took a couple steps toward first base and collapsed.

He was taken to Gaylord Memorial hospital where he was reported dead on arrival.

Timothy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee E. Alexander of Gaylord.

Police said the results of an autopsy performed this morning were not immediately available.

Jackson Hopes Calm Prevails

JACKSON, Miss (AP) — City officials are hoping for a return to calm following the funeral of James Earl Green, one of two students killed at Jackson State College May 15.

Police reported an atmosphere of strained quiet Friday night and maintained their watch for further firebomb incidents. Eight white-owned establishments in black neighborhoods have been the targets of firebombings or attempted firebombings since Green and Phillip Gibbs, 21, were shot to death by police during a disturbance at the predominantly black college.

Green's funeral at a Masonic temple drew some 4,000 persons, including a delegation of eight U.S. senators and nine congressmen. A brief graveside service followed at a nearby cemetery.

Senate To Vote Early In Week On Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate plans to vote early next week on whether to modify a proposal to curb U.S. military activities in Cambodia, but the outcome appears unlikely to settle the issue.

This became apparent when Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., one of the Republicans opposed to such a curb, said Friday he will vote for an amendment that revises the language in a proposal by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho.

Cooper and Church offered the revised language Thursday in a bid to reach an accommodation, but Republican leaders said the White House feels it fails to go far enough toward upholding President Nixon's authority to protect U.S. troops in Cambooodia and Vietnam.

Approvsal Likely

Griffin said he would support the revision because it improves the original Cooper-Church amendment, which he opposes. Cooper-Church forces claim 53 Senate votes, so the revision is likely to be approved.

But the tally won't reflect the true Senate division on the issue. Republican backing for the revision will camouflage what most tallies indicate is the administration's minority position.

Approval of the revision still leaves open the possibility that administration supporters will move via a series of proposals to give the President the authority he seeks. And there is no indication of an early vote on the Cooper-Church amendment itself.

Basic Issue

The basic issue is this: the White House is willing to go along with the main prohibition on funds for U.S. forces in Cambodia, provided the President is given explicit authority to take actions to protect American forces in both Vietnam and Cambodia.

The Cooper-Church forces oppose any such exception, because Nixon ordered the original attack into Cambodia with the announced aim of protecting U.S. forces in Vietnam, and they want to avoid a repetition.

The revised language to be voted on Tuesday would leave intact the Cooper-Church amendment's substantive ban on funds for "retaining" U.S. forces in Cambodia and restricting U.S. aid and use of airpower.

Two Elements Added

It would add two elements to the amendment's preamble: a provision making clear the fund cutoff only takes effect after July 1, 1970—the date Nixon said U.S. forces would be out of Cambodia—and language making clear the action is being undertaken "in concert with the declared objectives of the President of the United States to avoid the involvement of the United States in Cambodia after July 1, 1970."

Israeli Troops, Tanks Prepare 'Bus' Reprisals

By The Associated Press

Israel is massing troops and tanks on the Lebanese border to prepare more reprisals for the guerrilla ambush of an Israeli school bus, official sources in Beirut said today.

They said the troops were positioned on the eastern and central sectors of the 50-mile frontier and that Israeli tanks were grouping north of Acre on the Mediterranean coast 12 miles south of the border. Eight children and three adults were killed Friday when Arab guerrillas fired three bazooka shells into the school bus near the Lebanese border. Twenty-two other persons were wounded.

Within half an hour after the ambush, according to military communiques issued in Beirut, the Israelis opened heavy artillery fire on four Lebanese border towns. Israeli warplanes also went into action all along the frontier.

Lebanese officials said 20 persons were killed and 20 wounded in the reprisal raids and that 80 houses were destroyed.

The Lebanese government braced for more trouble today. Hundreds of civilians in towns that were shelled piled their belongings aboard trucks, taxis and donkeys, and fled their homes.

Many complained of lack of adequate shelters or means of defense. One man brandished a World War I rifle and a few bullets and said, "This is all I had to defend myself with."

The newspaper Le Jour quoted the mayor of Aitaroun as saying: "In this town of 8,000 people, there will soon remain only the owls."

Lebanese Ambassador Edouard Ghorra said in a letter to the United Nations that "we deplore the loss of life" in the attack on the bus. But he added that Lebanon did not know who did it and could not be held responsible.

U.S. Condemns Attack

The U.S. State Department called for condemnation of the attack "by the world community," but also expressed shock at Israel's reprisal attacks.

Britain called the ambush "a cruel act of terrorism" and said it would raise the issue at the United Nations.

In New York, eight men entered the office of the Palestine Liberation movement and beat an official of the organization, Sadat Hasan. A woman in the office said they ransacked six rooms. Hasan was reported in satisfactory condition.

A short while later, six men entered the office of the Action Committee on Arab-American Relations and beat an official and another man there.

The leader of the militant Jewish Defense League in New York, Rabbi Meir Kahane, said he approved of the attacks. But he denied that members of his group made them.

Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir expressed "shock and horror," and said she holds Lebanon responsible for guerrillas operating from Lebanese territory.

A small guerrilla group based in Amman, Jordan, claimed it had ordered the attack in revenge for the Israeli bombing raid that Egypt said hit a school last April 8 and left 30 children dead. Israel has insisted that attack was against military installations.

Troops, Tanks Push Toward VC Regiment

SAIGON (AP) — Two South Vietnamese task forces launched a two-pronged thrust today into Indochina's biggest rubber plantation, the 70-square-mile Chup plantation in eastern Cambodia.

About 10,000 South Vietnamese troops and hundreds of tanks and armored personnel carriers pushed northward along Highway 15 and westward along Route 7 toward the plantation to smash a crack Viet Cong regiment said to be operating there.

The plantation is east of Kompong Cham, Cambodia's third largest city.

Associated Press correspondent David Rosenzweig reported from the front that Task Force 318, driving northward toward the plantation's southern edge, killed 12 Khmer Rouge, the Viet Cong's Cambodian allies, and captured 13.

To the east of the plantation, 25 other enemy troops were reported killed.

Two South Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed and 11 wounded.

Guns Knocked Out

South Vietnamese bombers knocked out eight antiaircraft guns in the southwestern corner of the plantation, officers said.

Lt. Gen. Do Cao Tri, commander of the South Vietnamese forces, said intelligence indicated that most of the 272nd Regiment of the Viet Cong 9th Division was on the plantation.

A captured North Vietnamese soldier told South Vietnamese interrogators that 2,000 men of the 272nd were there. According to allied intelligence estimates, about 80 per cent of the regiment is made up of North Vietnamese soldiers.

"This is a hunting game between my forces and the Communists," said Tri. "If the Communists stand and fight we will destroy them."

The main objective of the drive is to destroy the regiment, but the South Vietnamese forces also hope to link up with Vietnamese civilian irregulars and open up Route 7 east of Kompong Cham.

Near Konpong Cham

The South Vietnamese task force moving along Route 7 had advanced by midafternoon today to within 12 miles of Kompong Cham. The city is about 35 miles from the Vietnamese border and 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

U.S. advisers reportedly pulled out of the operation before the Vietnamese crossed the 21.7 mile limit of penetration set for American troops by President Nixon.

The drive kicked off the fifth phase of South Vietnamese operations along Route 1, the high-

No Lid On Vice President

Agnew Rips Into Media

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has taken another swing at what he terms the "liberal news media of this country," adding he will continue to do so until they lower their voices a few decibels.

Speaking to about 600 Republicans at a $500-a-plate fund raising dinner Friday night, Agnew said President Nixon "has refused to curb my statements on behalf of this administration or to tell me what words to use or what tone to take in my speeches."

Among his targets were the New York Times, the New York Post and the Washington Post, from which he cited editorial comments. Television and radio also came under criticism again.

"Nowhere is the complaint louder than in the columns and editorials of the liberal news media of this country, those really illiberal, self-appointed guardians of our destiny who would like to run the country without ever submitting to the elective process as we in public office must do," he said.

As Agnew spoke, about 300 antiwar demonstrators marched outside the hotel where he was speaking. No trouble was reported.

Leaving the news media, Agnew turned to another of his favorite targets, campus demonstrators.

He attributed campus unrest to a "small hard core of hell raisers who want to overturn the system for the sake of chaos alone." Although they are few in number they have a shattering impact, he said.

Campus dissenters are encouraged by an equally small number of faculty members who apparently cannot compete legitimately within the system or do not chose to do so, Agnew said.

"It is my honest opinion that this hard core of faculty and students should be identified and dismissed from the otherwise healthy body of the college community lest they, like a cancer, destroy it," he said.

As for congressional critics on the President's Southeast Asia policy, the vice president said the senators are well intentioned, but have been in Congress so long that it has narrowed their viewpoint.

Agnew will address the opening session of the International Cancer Congress Sunday in Houston.

Fulbright Charges TV Battles 'Staged'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accusing government crews of sometimes staging battlefield scenes, Sen. J. W. Fulbright has demanded the Pentagon quit supplying Vietnam newsfilm to commercial television stations.

The Arkansas Democrat and war critic cited Friday three specific occasions in which he said Pentagon newsfilm teams had created battlefield incidents.

"Never before," declared Fulbright, "have our democratic institutions been so seriously threatened by an administration . . . uninhibited in presenting inaccurate or misleading information in order to sell offical policies."

Fulbright's remarks came in a letter to commentator Walter Cronkite of CBS News, who one day earlier disputed what he said were government charges the network had faked battlefield events.

In a separate letter to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Fulbright demanded an end to the program in which government-shot film from Vietnam is passed on to the networks.

The letter to Laird was not disclosed in detail, but in the one to Cronkite, Fulbright said the Defense Department was guilty of the same "fraudulent press practices" of which CBS said it was accused.

As examples, he named a film showing local Vietnamese forces with American advisers protecting villages, another showing Vietnamese flying AC47 gunships at night, and a third depicting U.S. and Vietnamese troops operating together at a fire support base.

The senator said he had been informed by the head of one of five Pentagon newsfilm crews in Vietnam that each had been deliberately staged.

Soldier Alleges My Lai 'Ordered'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A young soldier charged in connection with the alleged My Lai massacre in Vietnam says his unit attacked the village on orders from its commanding officer.

"We were told to kill every living thing and destroy all the houses," Spec. 4 William H. T'Souvas, 20, told a news conference Friday.

T'Souvas, who was 18 at the time of the alleged massacre in March 1968, said the village was a known Viet Cong and North Vietnamese army stronghold.

He said the order to destroy it came from Capt. Ernest Medina, his company commander who also has been charged in connection with the incident.

T'Souvas was accompanied at the news conference by his civilian attorney, George T. Davis of San Francisco, who allowed him to answer all but one question: Did you kill anyone?

David said a reply would go to the heart of the charges against T'Souvas and would be improper at the time. He said T'Souvas was accused of killing two children at My Lai and, if the slayings occured, they were mercy killings. The attorney said the children already were mortally wounded.

Soldier Alleges My Lai 'Ordered'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A young soldier charged in connection with the alleged My Lai massacre in Vietnam says his unit attacked the village on orders from its commanding officer.

"We were told to kill every living thing and destroy all the houses," Spec. 4 William H. T'Souvas, 20, told a news conference Friday.

T'Souvas, who was 18 at the time of the alleged massacre in March 1968, said the village was a known Viet Cong and North Vietnamese army stronghold.

He said the order to destroy it came from Capt. Ernest Medina, his company commander who also has been charged in connection with the incident.

T'Souvas was accompanied at the news conference by his civilian attorney, George T. Davis of San Francisco, who allowed him to answer all but one question: Did you kill anyone?

David said a reply would go to the heart of the charges against T'Souvas and would be improper at the time. He said T'Souvas was accused of killing two children at My Lai and, if the slayings occured, they were mercy killings. The attorney said the children already were mortally wounded.

Curb Pollution, Youngsters Ask

Community Pride Day of Michigan Week brought from sixth graders of Delta County many letters on the subject "Why I Like Delta County", and their thoughts (in the majority) turned to the need to preserve the area's outdoor beauty.

The essays of the young people were encouraged in a Community Pride Day project arranged by Mrs. Robert Mosenfelder, Escanaba, Pride Day chairman. A score or more of the letters have been published this week by the Escanaba Daily Press as a public service.

Today's letters continue the theme of pride and pleasure in a clean countryside.

Stop Pollution

"We are glad to have our beautiful parks, forests and sports. I want everyone to keep the trash in the car or in a garbage can. Don't leave it on the ground. Stop the pollution by cleaning the parks and the roads we drive on.

"Don't throw beer cans into the water because we are slowly polluting our lake, oceans, and streams. Do you like pollution? You can stop it! We all can do it so help us clean up the parks. It would be nice for everyone to work together to stop pollution. I like Delta County."

Danny Hamilton

"There are many reasons I like to live in Delta County, but I think the main reason is because of the beauty. I've lived here all my life and some of the things I have seen just make me feel like — well, I guess I just don't know how I feel. How do you feel when you see a nest of baby rabbits, a woodland stream in the fall with all those beautiful leaves, a winter wonderland when the trees are just a bit frosted? These are only a few of the very many things. I have seen. I'm not saying that other places don't have this to offer but it just seems a little more magical here because its home."

Children Will Help

"I like Delta County because there isn't too much pollution or smog. We have pretty good waterways that are clean. Some rivers are very full of trash.

We could help that by posting signs for $200 fines for polluters.

"If that didn't work we could get children from schools and pick up the trash. We could do this twice a week. The kids probably wouldn't care because they would be getting out of some work. Scientists could make robots that could pick up trash all over the United States.

"The people who did get caught throwing rubish on the highways should get a $200 fine, that is if it isn't just a gum wrapper. If it is a gum wrapper they should give them a $1 fine and the person go and pick it up even if its 15 miles away. Some people get away with too much.

"Of course everyone throws away some rubbish on the streets. Even if its a crumb of paper it piles up and can get worse. Lets hope it doesn't get too bad!"

Soo Hill Schedules Fluoride Program

The summer topical fluoride program will be held in Soo Hill at the Soo Hill School June 10-18 and at the Wells School in Wells June 19-29, according to Mrs. Orval Morrison and Mrs. John Gilbert, cochairmen of the Soo Hill Fluoride Program, which sponsors the program in cooperation with the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Mrs. Morrison said 230 children have enrolled in the program. The procedure consists of four visits to the clinic at approximately two day intervals. The child's teeth are cleaned on the first visit and a fluoride solution is applied to the surfaces of the teeth.

The fluoride application is then repeated during the three succeeding visits. This technique has been shown to reduce tooth decay by about 40 per cent compared to the 60 to 65 per cent reduction obtained with fluoridated water, she said.

In addition to providing protection against cavities, the program offers a valuable dental experience for children with no discomfort. Dental health education by the clinic personnel also is an important part of the program, Mrs. Gilbert said.

Parents of children enrolled in the program will receive appointment cards about two weeks prior to their children's first appointment.

In addition to the clinic in the Soo Hill and Wells area, about 40,000 children will be receiving fluoride applications this summer in 200 similar clinics throughout the state. This is the first year that a program has been conducted in Soo Hill and Wells.

NMU Situation To Be Reviewed

MARQUETTE — The president of Northern Michigan University reportedly has agreed to meet next week with a member of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission to discuss reported racial unrest on the campus.

George Gullen Jr., a member of the eight - man commission will meet Wednesday morning with John X. Jamrich, university president, said Tom Peloso, acting director of the commission. He said William Bledsoe, an assistant attorney general, would join the discussion.

In a telegram to Jamrich, Julian Cook, commission chairman, said:

"On behalf of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission I express our deep concern for the questions being raised by the black students as they relate to their safety on the NMU campus."

The commission's concerns are urgent, Cook said.

Jamrich, who Friday said in a telegram to Gov. William Milliken that proposed investigations of black student unrest at NMU would be "most detrimental to a fine state university," was unavailable for comment this morning.

Sea Grant

Jonathan W. Bulkley of Ann Arbor, an assistant professor of water resources in the School of Natural Resources who also does some work as an assistant professor in the School of Engineering at the University of Michigan, is a conservationist with a rather practical point of view.

Journalists in the Upper got an inside look at Bulkley's views and through him those of other U-M scientists involved in the University's Sea Grant program studying the Great Lakes at a dinner program the other night at the House of Ludington. Bulkley is firmly against water pollution — "water quality is going to be the most critical problem with these lakes," he said —and yet is sensible enough to realize that maintaining quality isn't something that can be done simply by throwing a switch.

Bulkley pointed out that the "flush out" time on Lake Michigan is about 100 years. That is, he continued, if a drop of water could be traced through the lake from the time it entered it would take about 100 years before it would be flushed out. That means waste put into the lake 50 and 75 years ago is still there, he said.

Yet, rational solutions have to be tempered by political reality, he added.

The question is "How does the public view the Great Lakes?"

"Do we view them as a trust to be preserved for the future, or should we exploit them now and let the future worry about itself?" he asked. "If we are to preserve them in trust, then radical changes are needed."

The question of trust is one not easily answered. For example, is there a point at which the economic benefit today might override the environmental questions for the future?

Bulkley said the "decisions we are making now are going to have far reaching consequences" in the future and it is one of the purposes of the Sea Grant program to develop the data and information — both on resource attributes of a lake and also man's use of the resource — on which to base those decisions.

"We hope to be able to predict what's going to happen to the Great Lakes" under a given set of circumstances, he said. "We hope to avoid the situation of generating unforseen consequences."

Bulkley pointed out, for example, that on a new aircraft design it's better to find out what's to happen on a model than on a prototype, "We don't want to get up in an airplane and find the wings fall off," he continued, "so we put a model in a wind tunnel first."

That same principal, he said, would be applied in the Sea Grant study of the Great Lakes.

The Sea Grant program will use Grand Traverse Bay, across Lake Michigan from Escanaba, as a "model" for Lake Michigan and 23 scientists and researchers will descend on Traverse City to begin gathering data on the areas.

Once data on resource attributes and resource uses are assembled, the members of the investigating study team will be able to make use of statistics and probability in describing the situation under examination. "Thus, they will have the scientific tools for predicting how any given input will affect a specific resource attribute or the total Great Lakes environment —now and in the future," according to the Research News, a monthly publication by the U-M Office of Research Administration.

With that information, decisions by society on uses and exploitation of the resource should become much more meaningful. At least there will be some environmental data and specific indicators to weigh against the economic benefit.

It's something that hasn't been available before and it seems like a most sensible approach to an extremely difficult problem.

'Burning' Ambition

Sen. Birch Bayh's presidential ambitions may have burned up on the hot sands of the Florida beaches.

The Indiana senator has set himself up as prosecutor, judge and jury of ethical standards for the Supreme Court, with substantial prodding from the labor leaders who contribute so handsomely to his campaign coffers. Having been instrumental in blocking confirmation of Judges Haynsworth and Carswell to the Supreme Court, Bayh has been pumped up by a number of national publications as a possible contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

Now it turns out that Bayh has been taking free vacations at two ritzy Miami Beach hotels, courtesy of the management. Ever since he got elected to the Senate back in 1962, Bayh has had a free vacation at the same sunshine spas.

It can be reasonably assumed that the owners of the hotels are expecting some kind of political repayment for their generosity.

One of the hotels, interestingly enough, is owned by the Teamsters' Union.

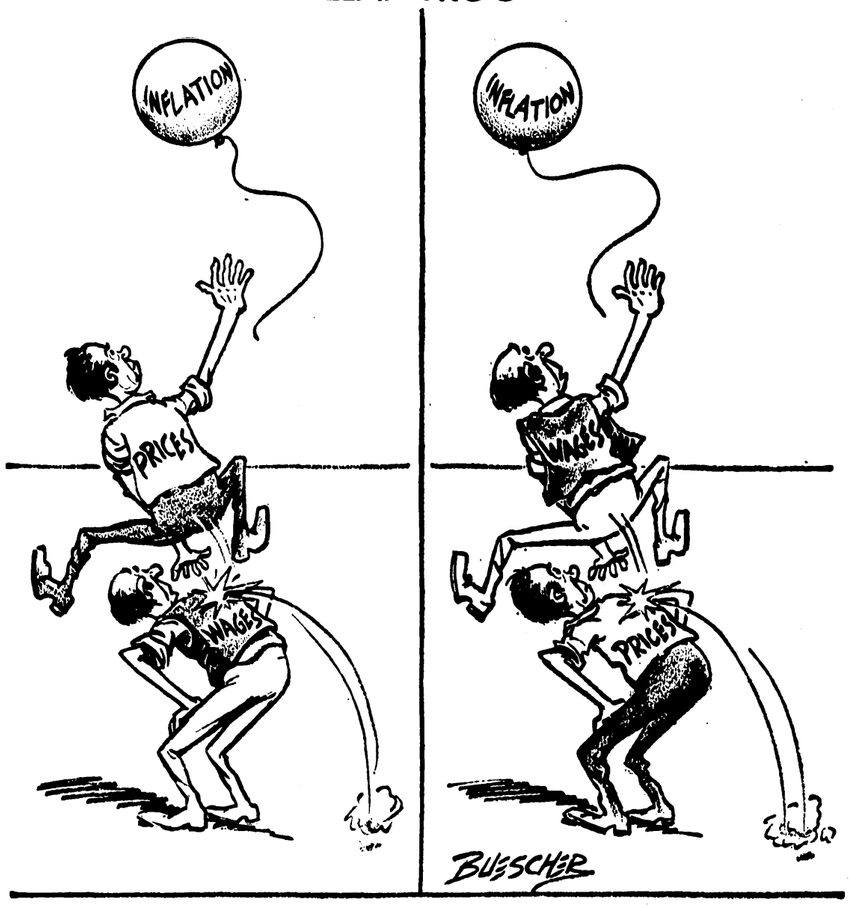

In his successful stand against Haynsworth and Carswell, Bayh claimed that he was only interested in their judicial integrity and competence, which are, of course, the proper criterion. He demanded ethical purity of the two judges but, however, is less demanding of himself, suggesting that his reasons for opposition were not connected to ability and honesty.

Bayh also likes to junket around Europe in the spring. This year he couldn't even wait until Congress recessed to fly over to Monaco for a conference, even though the Senate still had important measures up for consideration, which raises the question of his own experience.

Bayh's record indicates that Haynsworth and Carswell were objectionable to him because they could not be counted on to take a pro-labor stand on cases before the high bench.

In other words, they might rule on a case on its legal merits and not on whether it would help the unions.

LEAP FROG

Is It Still Possible To Recruit Heroes?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Francis Gary Powers, the pilot of the U-2 plane, "the black lady of espionage," which was shot down over Soviet territory and captured on May 1, 1960, has just published his long-suppressed account of the famous "incident" that allegedly wrecked a scheduled Summit meeting between Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower.

It is a thrilling story of a daring period in Cold War history in addition to being a fascinating and revealing personal memoir of what it is like to face a Soviet court and survive in Soviet prisons. The contents of the book, however, are something to be dealt with in the literary supplements.

What interests me here is a strange conjunction of circumstances: Powers is coming before the public with what amounts to a chapter of patriotic heroism at a time when the military virtures are selling at an even greater discount than our common stocks.

Powers was in New York the other day, making himself available for interviews. I had one single question I wanted to ask him: "How, in the emotional condition of this country as we enter the Nineteen Seventies, will it be possible for the Army, the Navy, the Air Force or the CIA to recruit young people to do the sort of protective job you did 10 and 15 years ago?"

Powers' answer was qualified, but is was fundamentally heartening. He allowed that recruitment for dangerous missions might be difficult in the college circles that look down on university welcome to the R.O.T.C and carry on like dervishes when patriotic corporations such as Dow Chemical or Minneapolis Honeywell try to interview prospective employes on the campuses.

But he had no fear that the de facto anti-patriotism of some of our "better" people would conquer the whole country. Recruitment of brave individuals outside of the "liberal" orbit would still be possible.

Powers confessed to a preference for the "Eisenhower years" to what has gone on in more recent times. "It was a thrill to me," he said, "that we had a President who was willing to take positive steps to meet dangers."

Make no mistake about it, the U-2 program which so displeased our so-called liberals was absolutely vital to the U.S. At the time it was undertaken nobody, not even the most experienced Russian expert in the CIA, had any idea of what was happening inside the Soviet Union to render the U.S. vulnerable to interconteinental missiles armed with atomic warheads.

The U-2, the product of the inventive genius of the Lockheed Company's Clarence L. "Kelly" Johnson, was a bold answer to the need for something that could fly long spy missions above the range of all known rockets and interceptors.

As Powers puts it, the U-2 had the body of a glider and the power of a jet. When it first took to the skies, it was considered a hazard. To keep it light, each piece of structure had to be a little thinner than a pilot would have liked. It had to be landed with what amounted to bicycle balance, on two wheels. As originally constituted, it had no ejection seat; a pilot, to bail out, had to climb out. The pilots who volunteered to take the U-2s over Russia with delicate photographic equipment in the planes' bellies had been led to belive that the 18-month period of their contracts would outlast what they were flying.

Nevertheless, young men with "flying in their blood" and patriotism in their hearts volunteered to pilot U-2s over Russia, from Pakistan on the east and south Bodo in Norway on the north, and from German and Japanese bases going east and west. Russian missile installations were thoroughly mapped; the U.S. had what it took to preserve itself through the years of the Cold War between the hot wars in Korea and Vietnam.

Today, luckily, the necessary photographic espionage is done by satellites that fly without human pilots. We don't need a constant supply of Nathan Hale - like courage to tell us what we need to know about Russia.

Auto Production Heading Upward

DETROIT (AP)—U. S. auto production continued its upward climb for the sixth successive week as an estimated 177,557 cars rolled off assembly lines this week.

The output compared with the 167,790 cars built in the preceding week and 173,807 in the like week a year ago, according to figures compiled by Automotive News, a trade publication.

On a calendar year to date basis, some 2,986,995 cars have been built to date compared with the 3,599,862 built in the comparable period a year ago.

The truck industry also upped its production schedules for the sixth consecutive week and built 42,798 vehicles compared with 40,611 last week and 34,833 in the like week a year ago.

On the Canadian front, motor vehicle output was trimmed by a holiday, Queen Victoria Day, last Monday.

There wasn't much rhyme or reason behind South's six diamond bid in this deal—he had already spoken his piece, and then some, when he jumped to two notrump. Five diamonds would have been fully adequate.

But you occasionally get lucky, even when you overbid, and South had more than his fair share of luck in this deal. To begin with, West led a spade. Had he led the ace and another heart, the slam would have failed very quickly and ignominiously—but he didn't, and thereby hangs this tale.

Declarer won and observed that there were two sure heart losers. An early and successful club finesse would permit him to discard one of dummy's hearts, but this would accomplish nothing, since he would still haver two hearts in each hand.

Howsver, South also noted that there was a legitimate chance for the slam if he postponed the finesse until much later on.

So, after a round of trumps, he played a spade to the king, ruffed a spade, crossed to dummy with a trump, and ruffed the last spade. He then cashed dummy's remaining trumps to produce this position:

Youthful 'Chemist' Told To Switch Jobs

Dear Ann Landers: I am an amateur chemist, age 15, who has gotten into a little trouble. The neighbor's dog bit me. I decided to give him something to make him sick. I didn't want to kill him, I just wanted to get even. After I prepared a mild arsenic mix I began to worry that it might be fatal. I have changed by mind about giving it to him.

Last night I saw a TV film on pollution and now I don't know how to get rid of this stuff. If I throw it in the toilet it might louse up the sewage purifying plant or the natural waterways. What should I do? — XXX

Dear XXX: Give the "stuff" to a pharmacist. He knows how to dispose of poisonous chemicals. And please find another hobby. A boy whose mind hatches such diabolical schemes shouldn't be fooling around with poisons.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the embattled parent who spoke out for the Beat-Up Generation was superb. Your response was excellent.

I am a physician, the father of six. Four of our children became disrespectful and far out in their mid-teens. They set out to do as they pleased. We tried reasoning, tolerance and compromise. Things went from bad to worse. First it was the oldest, then the plague spread down to the 15-year-old. Finally, in 1968 when all four went simultaneously haywire, I did as you advised — told them to "shape up or ship out." I banished them from the house and said they could return when they were ready to set a decent example for the two younger ones.

One is back home, and a joy to have. Another is almost ready. The other two have a way to go, but they'll make it. The two youngest now know what will happen if they try the same thing. I believe they will be just fine.

The hard line is the best line. It's like surgery — short-term, intense discomfort, but long term, worth it. True, not all operations are successful. Some patients don't survive. But when the surgery is clearly indicated, the greater good usually results. —No Name Please

Dear No Name: Your name is legion, I've had many letters from parents who wrote to say their kids shaped up when they laid down the law. Some won't make it — they'll wind up in serious trouble if they are kicked out, but in my opinion, these alienated kids wouldn't have made it the other way either.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a divorced woman who could pass for 35 in a poorly lit room.

I started to date a fascinating guy who is a couple years my junior. I'm ashamed to tell you that after three dates he "fascinated" me right into the bedroom. Now every time we get together it's the same routine. No conversation — just right to bed. I've tried to bring up subjects that interest him. I've suggested that we see a movie or a play, or a ball game, but it's useless. I want to marry this man but I can't get him to talk about anything. I'm getting disgusted. How can I get him to talk about our future together? — Penny

Dear Penny: Most 40-year-old bachelors would rather rent than buy. Don't be surprised if your romance goes no further than the bedroom. A lady who gives away samples has no right to "get disgusted" because the guy likes the merchandise.

JOB WELL DONE

Thursday evening I had the opportunity to hear the fifth and sixth grade orchestra, the fifth and sixth grade honors choir and the sixth grade band students of our Escanaba Area Elementary Schools.

With all the problems in our country today, it was very refreshing to hear what these students accomplished from the many hours of practice with their respective teachers. As in the past, these teachers, Robert Chase, Erwin Orban, Esther Schumm, Mrs. Beverly Moraco, Mrs. Claire Garrard, David Laakso and John Chown, have been thanked, but I would like to add my thanks for a job well done.

FORGET PREJUDICES

In recent weeks, many people have seen fit to express their opinions about developments in this land of ours, mainly events on the college campus.

First of all, I think there is far, far, too much hatred and prejudice in America, leading to name - calling and other abuses, which in turn leads to disunity. I do not recall at any time in my life where the country was any more divided than it is now, unless it was at the beginning of the Civil War, or or war between the States.

Some minds more intelligent than my own think that we are fast approaching this state again, unless the people decide to embark on a different path. It seems to me that the people who really love their country, will try to at least listen to someone who disagrees with them, so as to reach a reasonable understanding.

The Vietnam War is the key to most of our present troubles in the United States, in my opinion. As long as this war continues, our difficulties will mount instead of diminishing.

Therefore, I think that it is in the interest of every American to see that this war is brought to a speedy end. It is the cause of most of our inflation, high interest rates, unemployment, etc., not to mention the toll in young lives that it has taken.

Any sound thinking American should understand why it is the young who are creating most of the disturbances about the war. After all, they are the ones who have to go and put their lives on the line. The "silent majority," made up mostly of the older generation, keeps talking of peaceful dissent, certainly a thing I am for. However, when you have a lack of communication such as you have presently in the nation, along with name-calling, this does not promote tranquility as I see it.

I think it is about time we all start to forget our petty prejudices here in this land and live and act like Americans were intended to live. If we do not, we may all go down the drain, and the dream of our forefathers will have been in vain.

JESUIT MOVE

LONDON (AP)—The Jesuit House of Studies at Heythrop, Oxfordshire, is expected soon to become a part of London University. The move follows concern expressed at the Vatican Council that theological colleges should be linked with secular universities. The idea is that in future Jesuit and non-Jesuit, Roman Catholic and non-Catholic, teachers and students can approach their theology in an ecumenical setting. The Heythrop library, containing 200,000 rare books, will be available to London University students.

Sea Grant

Jonathan W. Bulkley of Ann Arbor, an assistant professor of water resources in the School of Natural Resources who also does some work as an assistant professor in the School of Engineering at the University of Michigan, is a conservationist with a rather practical point of view.

Journalists in the Upper got an inside look at Bulkley's views and through him those of other U-M scientists involved in the University's Sea Grant program studying the Great Lakes at a dinner program the other night at the House of Ludington. Bulkley is firmly against water pollution — "water quality is going to be the most critical problem with these lakes," he said —and yet is sensible enough to realize that maintaining quality isn't something that can be done simply by throwing a switch.

Bulkley pointed out that the "flush out" time on Lake Michigan is about 100 years. That is, he continued, if a drop of water could be traced through the lake from the time it entered it would take about 100 years before it would be flushed out. That means waste put into the lake 50 and 75 years ago is still there, he said.

Yet, rational solutions have to be tempered by political reality, he added.

The question is "How does the public view the Great Lakes?"

"Do we view them as a trust to be preserved for the future, or should we exploit them now and let the future worry about itself?" he asked. "If we are to preserve them in trust, then radical changes are needed."

The question of trust is one not easily answered. For example, is there a point at which the economic benefit today might override the environmental questions for the future?

Bulkley said the "decisions we are making now are going to have far reaching consequences" in the future and it is one of the purposes of the Sea Grant program to develop the data and information — both on resource attributes of a lake and also man's use of the resource — on which to base those decisions.

"We hope to be able to predict what's going to happen to the Great Lakes" under a given set of circumstances, he said. "We hope to avoid the situation of generating unforseen consequences."

Bulkley pointed out, for example, that on a new aircraft design it's better to find out what's to happen on a model than on a prototype, "We don't want to get up in an airplane and find the wings fall off," he continued, "so we put a model in a wind tunnel first."

That same principal, he said, would be applied in the Sea Grant study of the Great Lakes.

The Sea Grant program will use Grand Traverse Bay, across Lake Michigan from Escanaba, as a "model" for Lake Michigan and 23 scientists and researchers will descend on Traverse City to begin gathering data on the areas.

Once data on resource attributes and resource uses are assembled, the members of the investigating study team will be able to make use of statistics and probability in describing the situation under examination. "Thus, they will have the scientific tools for predicting how any given input will affect a specific resource attribute or the total Great Lakes environment —now and in the future," according to the Research News, a monthly publication by the U-M Office of Research Administration.

With that information, decisions by society on uses and exploitation of the resource should become much more meaningful. At least there will be some environmental data and specific indicators to weigh against the economic benefit.

It's something that hasn't been available before and it seems like a most sensible approach to an extremely difficult problem.

'Burning' Ambition

Sen. Birch Bayh's presidential ambitions may have burned up on the hot sands of the Florida beaches.

The Indiana senator has set himself up as prosecutor, judge and jury of ethical standards for the Supreme Court, with substantial prodding from the labor leaders who contribute so handsomely to his campaign coffers. Having been instrumental in blocking confirmation of Judges Haynsworth and Carswell to the Supreme Court, Bayh has been pumped up by a number of national publications as a possible contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

Now it turns out that Bayh has been taking free vacations at two ritzy Miami Beach hotels, courtesy of the management. Ever since he got elected to the Senate back in 1962, Bayh has had a free vacation at the same sunshine spas.

It can be reasonably assumed that the owners of the hotels are expecting some kind of political repayment for their generosity.

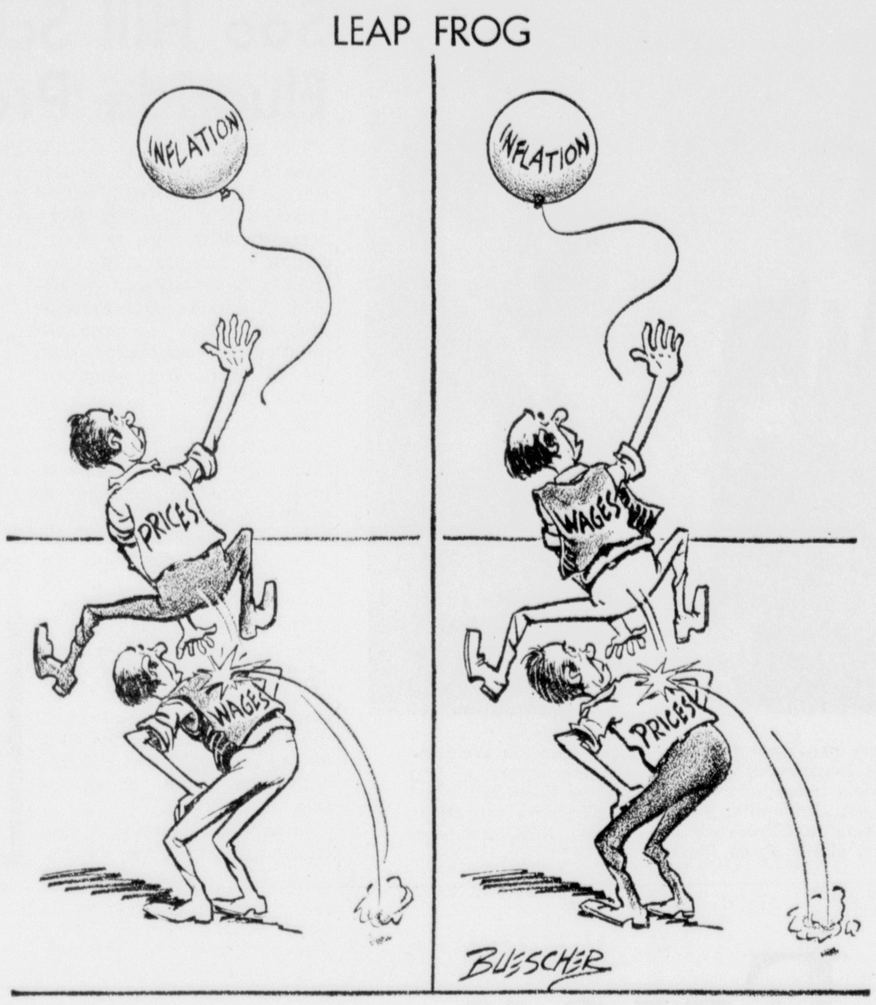

One of the hotels, interestingly enough, is owned by the Teamsters' Union.

In his successful stand against Haynsworth and Carswell, Bayh claimed that he was only interested in their judicial integrity and competence, which are, of course, the proper criterion. He demanded ethical purity of the two judges but, however, is less demanding of himself, suggesting that his reasons for opposition were not connected to ability and honesty.

Bayh also likes to junket around Europe in the spring. This year he couldn't even wait until Congress recessed to fly over to Monaco for a conference, even though the Senate still had important measures up for consideration, which raises the question of his own experience.

Bayh's record indicates that Haynsworth and Carswell were objectionable to him because they could not be counted on to take a pro-labor stand on cases before the high bench.

In other words, they might rule on a case on its legal merits and not on whether it would help the unions.

Is It Still Possible To Recruit Heroes?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Francis Gary Powers, the pilot of the U-2 plane, "the black lady of espionage," which was shot down over Soviet territory and captured on May 1, 1960, has just published his long-suppressed account of the famous "incident" that allegedly wrecked a scheduled Summit meeting between Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower.

It is a thrilling story of a daring period in Cold War history in addition to being a fascinating and revealing personal memoir of what it is like to face a Soviet court and survive in Soviet prisons. The contents of the book, however, are something to be dealt with in the literary supplements.

What interests me here is a strange conjunction of circumstances: Powers is coming before the public with what amounts to a chapter of patriotic heroism at a time when the military virtures are selling at an even greater discount than our common stocks.

Powers was in New York the other day, making himself available for interviews. I had one single question I wanted to ask him: "How, in the emotional condition of this country as we enter the Nineteen Seventies, will it be possible for the Army, the Navy, the Air Force or the CIA to recruit young people to do the sort of protective job you did 10 and 15 years ago?"

Powers' answer was qualified, but is was fundamentally heartening. He allowed that recruitment for dangerous missions might be difficult in the college circles that look down on university welcome to the R.O.T.C and carry on like dervishes when patriotic corporations such as Dow Chemical or Minneapolis Honeywell try to interview prospective employes on the campuses.

But he had no fear that the de facto anti-patriotism of some of our "better" people would conquer the whole country. Recruitment of brave individuals outside of the "liberal" orbit would still be possible.

Powers confessed to a preference for the "Eisenhower years" to what has gone on in more recent times. "It was a thrill to me," he said, "that we had a President who was willing to take positive steps to meet dangers."

Make no mistake about it, the U-2 program which so displeased our so-called liberals was absolutely vital to the U.S. At the time it was undertaken nobody, not even the most experienced Russian expert in the CIA, had any idea of what was happening inside the Soviet Union to render the U.S. vulnerable to interconteinental missiles armed with atomic warheads.

I am a physician, the father of six. Four of our children became disrespectful and far out in their mid-teens. They set out to do as they pleased. We tried reasoning, tolerance and compromise. Things went from bad to worse. First it was the oldest, then the plague spread down to the 15-year-old. Finally, in 1968 when all four went simultaneously haywire, I did as you advised — told them to "shape up or ship out." I banished them from the house and said they could return when they were ready to set a decent example for the two younger ones.

One is back home, and a joy to have. Another is almost ready. The other two have a way to go, but they'll make it. The two youngest now know what will happen if they try the same thing. I believe they will be just fine.

The hard line is the best line. It's like surgery — short-term, intense discomfort, but long term, worth it. True, not all operations are successful. Some patients don't survive. But when the surgery is clearly indicated, the greater good usually results. —No Name Please

Dear No Name: Your name is legion, I've had many letters from parents who wrote to say their kids shaped up when they laid down the law. Some won't make it — they'll wind up in serious trouble if they are kicked out, but in my opinion, these alienated kids wouldn't have made it the other way either.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a divorced woman who could pass for 35 in a poorly lit room.

I started to date a fascinating guy who is a couple years my junior. I'm ashamed to tell you that after three dates he "fascinated" me right into the bedroom. Now every time we get together it's the same routine. No conversation — just right to bed. I've tried to bring up subjects that interest him. I've suggested that we see a movie or a play, or a ball game, but it's useless. I want to marry this man but I can't get him to talk about anything. I'm getting disgusted. How can I get him to talk about our future together? — Penny

Dear Penny: Most 40-year-old bachelors would rather rent than buy. Don't be surprised if your romance goes no further than the bedroom. A lady who gives away samples has no right to "get disgusted" because the guy likes the merchandise.

Show Goes On

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — In true "show must go on" fashion, radio station WHFB remained on the air despite a burglary in which some wires were cut and about $15,000 in equipment was stolen.

Police said the thieves gained entry to the radio station early this week by prying open a back door. Officials at the station said two IGM stereo carrousel tape players and a memory programer unit were stolen.

JOB WELL DONE

Thursday evening I had the opportunity to hear the fifth and sixth grade orchestra, the fifth and sixth grade honors choir and the sixth grade band students of our Escanaba Area Elementary Schools.

With all the problems in our country today, it was very refreshing to hear what these students accomplished from the many hours of practice with their respective teachers. As in the past, these teachers, Robert Chase, Erwin Orban, Esther Schumm, Mrs. Beverly Moraco, Mrs. Claire Garrard, David Laakso and John Chown, have been thanked, but I would like to add my thanks for a job well done.

FORGET PREJUDICES

In recent weeks, many people have seen fit to express their opinions about developments in this land of ours, mainly events on the college campus.

First of all, I think there is far, far, too much hatred and prejudice in America, leading to name - calling and other abuses, which in turn leads to disunity. I do not recall at any time in my life where the country was any more divided than it is now, unless it was at the beginning of the Civil War, or or war between the States.

Some minds more intelligent than my own think that we are fast approaching this state again, unless the people decide to embark on a different path. It seems to me that the people who really love their country, will try to at least listen to someone who disagrees with them, so as to reach a reasonable understanding.

The Vietnam War is the key to most of our present troubles in the United States, in my opinion. As long as this war continues, our difficulties will mount instead of diminishing.

Therefore, I think that it is in the interest of every American to see that this war is brought to a speedy end. It is the cause of most of our inflation, high interest rates, unemployment, etc., not to mention the toll in young lives that it has taken.

Any sound thinking American should understand why it is the young who are creating most of the disturbances about the war. After all, they are the ones who have to go and put their lives on the line. The "silent majority," made up mostly of the older generation, keeps talking of peaceful dissent, certainly a thing I am for. However, when you have a lack of communication such as you have presently in the nation, along with name-calling, this does not promote tranquility as I see it.

I think it is about time we all start to forget our petty prejudices here in this land and live and act like Americans were intended to live. If we do not, we may all go down the drain, and the dream of our forefathers will have been in vain.

JESUIT MOVE

LONDON (AP)—The Jesuit House of Studies at Heythrop, Oxfordshire, is expected soon to become a part of London University. The move follows concern expressed at the Vatican Council that theological colleges should be linked with secular universities. The idea is that in future Jesuit and non-Jesuit, Roman Catholic and non-Catholic, teachers and students can approach their theology in an ecumenical setting. The Heythrop library, containing 200,000 rare books, will be available to London University students.

Cambodian troops, with air support from the South Vietnamese air force, were reported last Sunday to have regained control of the strategically situated city, although strong North Vietnamese forces were still reported in the region.

Sharp Fighting

South Vietnamese troops operating farther north in Cambodia encountered their first sharp fighting Friday in an operation they began three days ago.

Twenty North Vietnamese soldiers and seven government troops were reported killed in the clash six miles inside Cambodia, west of Vietnam's southern Central highlands.

The U.S. Command reported that American and South Vietnamese forces operating together in the fishhook region of Cambodia north of Saigon encountered several light and scattered contacts throughout the zone.

The command said U.S. casualties in the Cambodian offensive officially launched April 29 now total 190 troops killed and 731 wounded.

South Vietnamese losses were reported as more than 60 troops killed and more than 2,000 wounded

The allied commands claim more than 8,500 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers killed.

Rose Loses Trip To Italy

MARQUETTE — Ted Rose, the highest scoring cager in Northern Michigan University history, had his basketball trip to Europe cancelled by the Italian Basketball Federation.

Dick Percadaino, New York representative of the Italian Federation, advised the NMU athletic department of the sudden change in plans less than 24 hours before Rose was to leave here for Europe.

Percadaino said he received the following cablegram message from Italy: "Very sory, cancel reservations for Mr. Rose." He said there was no explanation.

"It is posible," Percadaino added "that they have become interested in another American player."

Percadaino also said he would attempt to "make arrangements with some other team since Ted has indicated his interset in going to Italy."

The 6' 6" Rose had been slated to report to Milan, the defending champion of the Italian Federation, next Tuesday for a three week tryout and would have appeared with the team in an international tournament in Athens, Greece, in mid-June.

Rose, meanwhile, has left NMU for his home in Louisville, Ky., where he is under contract to the Kentucky Colonels of the American Basketball Association.

Milliken Asks Action On DDT

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William G. Milliken has asked the Agriculture Department to take legal action against any wholesalers and retailers who continue to sell DDT after June 28.

It was last June 27 that the department canceled registration of DDT sales in the state except for public health needs. That action stopped importation of new stocks into the state.

Milliken, in making the request, said he thought one year enough time for wholesalers and retailers to get rid of stocks on hand.

A bill passed earlier by the Senate and now scheduled for House action early next month would limit indoor use of DDT pesticides to licensed operators acting under specific controls.

Italian city-states trading with the Arabs in the Middle Ages followed Moslem examples when they developed the bill of exchange and joint-stock company.

Former Judge Attacks Parochiaid Petition

Michigan could lose upwards of $30 million annually in federal funds for disadvantaged children in public schools if a Constitutional Amendment prohibiting aid to non-public school students is adopted, according to a former federal judge.

John Feikens of Detroit said non-public school students would be unable to participate in various federal programs to aid disadvantaged children if the Constitutional Amendment is adopted.

"If this were to happen, the $30 million Michigan public schools receive—for educationally deprived children, including $12 million to the Detroit schools—could well be cut off," he said.

Total Repeal

"This would happen because the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) of 1965 stipulates that as a condition for receipt of federal funds to public schools they must include educationally deprived children in non-public schools or they do not receive any funds."

Feikens said the effect of the proposed Constitutional Amendment would be to repeal all existing state and federal benefits and services presently being received by children attending non-public schools, with the exception of bus transportation.

"The Constitutional Amendment would repeal the Auxiliary Services Act of 1965 which provides nine specific services for children attending non-public schools," the former federal judge said.

Broad Impact

"These services include such items as street crossing guards to help children cross the street safely, eye and ear testing, remedial reading and speech therapy services and counseling for physically and emotionally handicapped children."

Feikens said the Constitutional Amendment would prohibit shared time programs under which children attending non-public schools are able to attend public schools on a part-time basis to take science courses or vocational education classes.

"The proposed Constitutional Amendment is so broad that non-public school students would be unable to use a public library for school purposes, play athletic contests on public school athletic fields or in public school gymnasiums or take driver training at a public school," he said.

The proposed Constitutional Amendment would prohibit any local governmental unit such as a city, county or township to aid a non-public school either directly or indirectly. This language may well peopardize such essential services as police and fire protection. As the Amendment is now written, Feikens said, it would repeal the existing tax exempt status of non-public schools presently guaranteed by the Michigan Constitution.

Schools Would Close

Adoption of the Constitutional Amendment, Feikens said, "would force 90 per cent of Michigan's 800 non-public schools to close within two years."

"The result would be that the taxpayers of Michigan would be forced to pay an additional $300 million annually to educate non-public school children in public schools," he said. "In addition, it would cost an estimated $1 billion to build new schools or lease or purchase existing non-public schools."

Feikens said that the proposed Constitutional Amendment "would have the same effect as a similar proposal placed on the ballot by the Ku Klux Klan in 1920 and 1924."

"Both Constitutional Amendments placed on the ballot by the Klan would have required every child to be educated in a public school," he said. "The voters defeated the 1920 proposal by a 2-1 vote and the 1924 proposal by a 3-1 vote.

"I would hope this year's proposal—if it is on the ballot—would be defeated by an even larger margin."

U. S. Conflict?

Feikens said the proposed Amendment may be in conflict with both the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the U. S. Constitution," he said.

"We have come a long way in this country to remove the racial test for voting, jobs and housing," the former co-chairman of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission continued.

"It would be tragic indeed if we were to impose a religious test for the receipt of such benefits as eye and ear testing for non-public school students."

Feikens served as a federal judge in Detroit in 1961-62, was co-chairman of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission from 1964-67, and is a past president of the Detroit Bar Association. He presently is a commissioner of the Michigan State Bar Association

Agricultural authorities estimate that up to $100 million in crops may be lost to birds in the United States each year. The Federal Aviation Authority also notes that collisions between birds and planes cost about $10 million annually.

DO YOU REALLY THINK THAT AN HONEST DAY'S WORK IS A SUCKER PROPOSITION?

(The Japanese, Germans & Italians Don't)

If you are one of the millions of Americans who believe this, you are hurting your nation.

All over the world there are other workers trying to take American jobs by taking American customers. They work harder for lower wages, and are using tools just as good as yours. And they produce better bargains.

They haven't "got it made" like you (think you) have. You enjoy your power to get raise after raise without matching productivity. Your managers do what they can to hold the line, but you've got the bit in your teeth and the power to strike the plant.

So, somewhere along the line management compromises, agrees to a price-raising wage, and reluctantly asks the customer to pay it.

How long do you think foreign customers will keep on buying your over-priced production? As a matter of hard fact, more and more American customers are switching to imported bargains. Maybe even you, yourself, have stopped buying what you make.

What should you do about it? Stop counting your stage money and get your eye back on the ball—the production ball. Otherwise you might lose the ball game.

If you would like to see evidence of the impact that this program is making, ask for our 30th Annual Report.

RAISES THAT RAISE PRICES RAISE HAVOC

Here's the crystal ball that tells man's economic fortune. Let's spell it out. Man's material welfare (MMW) equals his natural resources (NR) plus the muscular and mental human energy (HE) he applies to them multiplied by the efficiency of his tools (T).

This is PRODUCTION, the source of all economic blessings. You are (HE). For your own sake and everybody else's, keep your eye on the ball.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE BALL!

"The result would be that the taxpayers of Michigan would be forced to pay an additional $300 million annually to educate non-public school children in public schools," he said. "In addition, it would cost an estimated $1 billion to build new schools or lease or purchase existing non-public schools."

Feikens said that the proposed Constitutional Amendment "would have the same effect as a similar proposal placed on the ballot by the Ku Klux Klan in 1920 and 1924."

"Both Constitutional Amendments placed on the ballot by the Klan would have required every child to be educated in a public school," he said. "The voters defeated the 1920 proposal by a 2-1 vote and the 1924 proposal by a 3-1 vote.

"I would hope this year's proposal—if it is on the ballot—would be defeated by an even larger margin."

U. S. Conflict?

Feikens said the proposed Amendment may be in conflict with both the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the U. S. Constitution," he said.

"We have come a long way in this country to remove the racial test for voting, jobs and housing," the former co-chairman of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission continued.

"It would be tragic indeed if we were to impose a religious test for the receipt of such benefits as eye and ear testing for non-public school students."

Feikens served as a federal judge in Detroit in 1961-62, was co-chairman of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission from 1964-67, and is a past president of the Detroit Bar Association. He presently is a commissioner of the Michigan State Bar Association.

Agricultural authorities estimate that up to $100 million in crops may be lost to birds in the United States each year. The Federal Aviation Authority also notes that collisions between birds and planes cost about $10 million annually.

DO YOU REALLY THINK THAT AN HONEST DAY'S WORK IS A SUCKER PROPOSITION?

(The Japanese, Germans & Italians Don't)

If you are one of the millions of Americans who believe this, you are hurting your nation.

All over the world there are other workers trying to take American jobs by taking American customers. They work harder for lower wages, and are using tools just as good as yours. And they produce better bargains.

They haven't "got it made" like you (think you) have. You enjoy your power to get raise after raise without matching productivity. Your managers do what they can to hold the line, but you've got the bit in your teeth and the power to strike the plant.

RAISES THAT RAISE PRICES RAISE HAVOC

So, somewhere along the line management compromises, agrees to a price-raising wage, and reluctantly asks the customer to pay it.

How long do you think foreign customers will keep on buying your over-priced production? As a matter of hard fact, more and more American customers are switching to imported bargains. Maybe even you, yourself, have stopped buying what you make.

What should you do about it? Stop counting your stage money and get your eye back on the ball—the production ball. Otherwise you might lose the ball game.

Here's the crystal ball that tells man's economic fortune. Let's spell it out. Man's material welfare (MMW) equals his natural resources (NR) plus the muscular and mental human energy (HE) he applies to them multiplied by the efficiency of his tools (T).

This is PRODUCTION, the source of all economic blessings. You are (HE). For your own sake and everybody else's, keep your eye on the ball.

If you would like to see evidence of the impact that this program is making, ask for our 30th Annual Report.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE BALL!

Officials Review School Closings

By The Associated Press

School officials in Battle Creek and Kalamazoo are debating when to reopen two schools closed after racial flareups.

There were no classes at Battle Creek Central High School Friday and Kalamazoo's South Junior High School was closed at midmorning Friday.

The South closing came after scuffling broke out in the cafeteria between some white students who were holding a meeting there and some black youths who had gathered around them.

Principal John Dunn said about 100 whites then left the school to meet with officials at the School Adminihtration bulidig while another 75 to 100 black pupils left their classes and milled about the school's halls. Police were summoned and the school was closed.

Dunn said some windows were broken at the school Thursday after blacks demanded a black culture club and black history courses.

Friday's incident brought no arrests and no one was hurt seriously. The Kalamazoo school has about 1,000 pupils but Dunn said fewer than 200 were involved in the trouble.

One 17-year-old pupil remained hospitalized with a spinal injury Friday in Battle Creek after a melee injured 17 students and one instrumental music instructor at Central High Thursday None of the other injured persons required hospitalization.

Principal Edward Martin said Thursday's outbreak followed false reports that only black pupils were disciplined after a racial disturbance at a nearby junior high. Martin said pupils of both races were punished after the junior high disturbance.

Secretaries Honored On 100th Anniversary

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — This year marks the 100th anniversary of the formal debut of one of the heroines of history—the American female secretary.

So let's salute the little lady, once known as "Miss Typewriter," then "Tillie the Toiler," and now the "Girl Friday."

Can you imagine a world without women? Well, that was virtually what the U.S. business office was like back in 1870, when eight young ladies specially trained by the YWCA here marched on the scene.

Male office workers, who wore celluloid cuff protectors and wrote with quill pens, nearly fell off their high stools laughing at these determined girls, prim in long black skirts, high-button shoes and mutton-sleeve white blouses.

But their laughter soon died.

The girls proved remarkably efficient at the big, clumsy typewriters of that day.

"By the end of the Gay Nineties only 22 per cent of secretarial jobs were still in male hands," said Robert Murray, an executive with The Edison Voicewriter firm. "And today of course, an overwhelming majority of the nation's 2½ million or more of the nation's secretaries and stenographers are women." This first great feminist victory in America is far from over. Forseeing a need of at least 200,000 additional secretaries a year for some time, Murray said:

"Automation, far from making the secretarial role obsolete, has brought about an office revolution which has catapulted the 'Girl Friday' to an envied position," said Murray.

Today's successful secretary is far more than a meek mouse who has moved her workshop from the kitchen to the office. She dresses like a debutante, has her own apartment, visits swank summer resorts, skis in winter if she chooses, and more and more acts as a trusted confidante and alter ego to her boss.

"Between 1955 and 1969," Murray pointed out, "those earning over $100 weekly rose from five per cent to more than 30 per cent. Top secretaries command salaries of $10,000, and some move into the executive brackets.

"Almost one in five now enjoys a three-week vacation; six per cent get four weeks off."

Few actually marry their boss, but at least they don't have to sit on their hands at home waiting for the boy next door to propose.

Mystery Girl In Kent Photo Was Runaway

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The mystery girl photographed leaning over the body of a student shot down at Kent State University has been found by juvenile authorities and identified as a 15-year-old runaway from Opa Locka, Fla.

Juvenile officials said she is Mary Ann Vecchio, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Vecchio, recognized her in a widely published Associated Press photograph.

Miss Vecchio talked with her mother and father by telephone Thursday night and told them: "I want to go home."

Her parents said they would come to Indianapolis and accompany her to Florida.

Miss Vecchio said that after running from Florida she hitchhiked and begged money and food. In Kent, Ohio, she said, she heard there was going to be an antiwar protest and went to the university campus.

"We were sitting in front of a building chatting when the guardsmen moved on us with gas," Miss Vecchio said "We ran around the building, then down to an open field, or maybe it was a parking lot."

When the guardsmen began shooting, she said, "I rolled down the hill and tried to hide behind a newspaper stand. That's when I saw the man go down. I ran over to him.

Three other students, two of them coeds, also were killed.

U.S. To Extend War, Tass Says

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet news commentator predicted Friday night that "Washington is going to continue" the Vietnam war for five more years.

He based his conclusions on objections raised by the U.S. government to Ford Motor Co. helping build a Soviet truck plant.

The article by Leonid Velichansky, a commenttor for the official Soviet news gency Tass was the first public Soviet response to Ford's announcement nine days ago that it was turning down a Soviet bid for assistance at the truck plant on the Kama River.

Velichansky wrote that U.S. Defense Secreatry Melvin Laird had opposed U.S. participation on grounds that trucks produced there might be sent to Communist—led troops in Vietnam and used against U.S. forces there.

The article said the plant would not be in production before 1974 and "one is led to conclude from Mr. Laird's statement that Washington is going to continue the war for five more years."

Campus Recess Urged By Levin

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan colleges and universities should recess for two weeks before the November election so students can work for candidates, says Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley.

Levin, seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, made the remark at Michigan State University. He also said students should work to cut off funds for American military action in Cambodia and Vietnam; start a campus movement in support of lowering the voting age to 18, including a peaceful march on the state Capitol; and support a bill which would exempt Michigan residents from serving in undeclared wars.

Levin said, "It is becoming clear now that we will never stop this war by protests only... If we want to stop this war, we must have new kinds of demonstrations—demonstrations of political power."

He said young people represent "the largest potenitial voting bloc in the United States."

Young People Help Form Draft Policy

By DON HOENSHELL
Panax Staff Writer

LANSING — Young people are already telling Michigan's military draft system what they think.

No firebombs or marches, broken windows or sit-ins.

They sit around a polished table at Michigan Selective Service Headquarters a couple of miles from the capitol and try to weave the troubles of youth into the regulations.

And here's one of them — a Michigan State University coed who has eight brothers, who hates war as much as anybody.

Mary Ann O'Brien, of Mason, is one of the 13 student advisers to Col. Arthur A. Holmes, state Selective Service director in a little-known program that has been going on since early 1969.

"They're Listening"

She's excited that the Establishment is asking young people all over the country to help think out the problems of maintaining a military with the draft system.

"It's great that they're listening," she said. "That's what impressed me the most."

Holmes said that Michigan was selected by retired Selective Service Chief General Lewis B. Hershey as one of five pilot program states to create a youth advisory group for the state director.

The early success of the program brought an order for every state and some territories to do the same. Holmes thinks the idea — and the young people — are great.

"I'm satisfied that they're getting their feet on the ground and are coming up with constructive criticisms, rather than criticizing for the sake of criticism," he said.

Given Guidance

"I think the administration is getting a lot of guidance from these young people. Some of their ideas have been made into presidential policy.

"Others will take a presidential proclamation or a change in federal law and they'll take more time. But the value these people bring to the system is more real than symbolic."

Mary Ann has been a member of the group since February. Here's how the program works:

Washington develops in writing a hypothetical case history describing a problem. State youth advisers noodle it out and make recommendations. The reports from all states are studied and a correlated report is made.

Takles Issues

The Michigan group has tackled student deferments, the draft lottery and other issues. Now it is working on public information.

"We're trying to find out what the public actually knows or thinks about selective service," Mary Ann said. "We go out in the field for our research to get all the facts we can."

Holmes, a veteran army man, said the advisery group closes the communications gap between the generations but, more importantly, it provides fresh ideas in an area likely to be bogged down in the status quo.

"They formulate opinions and ideas, particularly on problems that are bothering young people," he said. "And they have inspired some changes in policies, in the physical examination process, for example.

Opposes Deferments

"They have told us that student deferments should be changed and the draft lottery would be a lot more equitable. This is a great service they are doing."

Mary Ann figures she might be as radical as some others, but has different ideas on how to bring about change.

"At first I was skeptical," she said. "What could a youth do to change the Establishment?

"The important thang is that they're listening. It's great. There's no way we can impose radical change but we can work to make things better.

"There's a lot of misunderstanding. Some young people think the draft boards themselves are bad. Actually, the local people are so much for the registrants. They're there to help.

"The people at Selective Service represent the Establishment, of course, but they're listening. There are a lot of inequities in the system, but there are in any system."

Mary Ann's interest includes her eight brothers, of course. Her father, Mason City Attorney John O'Brien, is a Selective Service appeals agent.

Officials Review School Closings

By The Associated Press

School officials in Battle Creek and Kalamazoo are debating when to reopen two schools closed after racial flareups.

There were no classes at Battle Creek Central High School Friday and Kalamazoo's South Junior High School was closed at midmorning Friday.

The South closing came after scuffling broke out in the cafeteria between some white students who were holding a meeting there and some black youths who had gathered around them.

Principal John Dunn said about 100 whites then left the school to meet with officials at the School Adminihtration bulding while another 75 to 100 black pupils left their classes and milled about the school's halls. Police were summoned and the school was closed.

Dunn said some windows were broken at the school Thursday after blacks demanded a black culture club and black history courses.

Friday's incident brought no arrests and no one was hurt seriously. The Kalamazoo school has about 1,000 pupils but Dunn said fewer than 200 were involved in the trouble.

One 17-year-old pupil remained hospitalized with a spinal injury Friday in Battle Creek after a melee injured 17 students and one instrumental music instructor at Central High Thursday. None of the other injured persons required hospitalization.

Principal Edward Martin said Thursday's outbreak followed false reports that only black pupils were disciplined after a racial disturbance at a nearby junior high. Martin said pupils of both races were punished after the junior high disturbance.

Secretaries Honored On 100th Anniversary

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — This year marks the 100th anniversary of the formal debut of one of the heroines of history—the American female secretary.

So let's salute the little lady, once known as "Miss Typewriter," then "Tillie the Toiler," and now the "Girl Friday."

Can you imagine a world without women? Well, that was virtually what the U.S. business office was like back in 1870, when eight young ladies specially trained by the YWCA here marched on the scene.

Male office workers, who wore celluloid cuff protectors and wrote with quill pens, nearly fell off their high stools laughing at these determined girls, prim in long black skirts, high-button shoes and mutton-sleeve white blouses.

But their laughter soon died. The girls proved remarkably efficient at the big, clumsy typewriters of that day.

"By the end of the Gay Nineties only 22 per cent of secretarial jobs were still in male hands," said Robert Murray, an executive with The Edison Voicewriter firm. "And today of course, an overwhelming majority of the nation's 2½ million or more of the nation's secretaries and stenographers are women." This first great feminist victory in America is far from over. Forseeing a need of at least 200,000 additional secretaries a year for some time, Murray said:

"Automation, far from making the secretarial role obsolete, has brought about an office revolution which has catapulted the 'Girl Friday' to an envied position," said Murray.

Today's successful secretary is far more than a meek mouse who has moved her workshop from the kitchen to the office. She dresses like a debutante, has her own apartment, visits swank summer resorts, skis in winter if she chooses, and more and more acts as a trusted confidante and alter ego to her boss.

"Between 1955 and 1969," Murray pointed out, "those earning over $100 weekly rose from five per cent to more than 30 per cent. Top secretaries command salaries of $10,000, and some move into the executive brackets.

"Almost one in five now enjoys a three-week vacation; six per cent get four weeks off."

Few actually marry their boss, but at least they don't have to sit on their hands at home waiting for the boy next door to propose.

Campus Recess Urged By Levin

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan colleges and universities should recess for two weeks before the November election so students can work for candidates, says Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley.

Levin, seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, made the remark at Michigan State University. He also said students should work to cut off funds for American military action in Cambodia and Vietnam; start a campus movement in support of lowering the voting age to 18, including a peaceful march on the state Capitol; and support a bill which would exempt Michigan residents from serving in undeclared wars.

Levin said, "It is becoming clear now that we will never stop this war by protests only... If we want to stop this war, we must have new kinds of demonstrations—demonstrations of political power."

He said young people represent "the largest potenitial voting bloc in the United States."

Young People Help Form Draft Policy

By DON HOENSHELL
Panax Staff Writer

LANSING — Young people are already telling Michigan's military draft system what they think.

No firebombs or marches, broken windows or sit-ins.

They sit around a polished table at Michigan Selective Service Headquarters a couple of miles from the capitol and try to weave the troubles of youth into the regulations.

And here's one of them — a Michigan State University coed who has eight brothers, who hates war as much as anybody.

Mary Ann O'Brien, of Mason, is one of the 13 student advisers to Col. Arthur A. Holmes, state Selective Service director in a little-known program that has been going on since early 1969.

"They're Listening"

She's excited that the Establishment is asking young people all over the country to help think out the problems of maintaining a military with the draft system.

"It's great that they're listening," she said. "That's what impressed me the most."

Holmes said that Michigan was selected by retired Selective Service Chief General Lewis B. Hershey as one of five pilot program states to create a youth advisory group for the state director.

The early success of the program brought an order for every state and some territories to do the same. Holmes thinks the idea — and the young people — are great.

"I'm satisfied that they're getting their feet on the ground and are coming up with constructive criticisms, rather than criticizing for the sake of criticism," he said.

Given Guidance

"I think the administration is getting a lot of guidance from these young people. Some of their ideas have been made into presidential policy.

"Others will take a presidential proclamation or a change in federal law and they'll take more time. But the value these people bring to the system is more real than symbolic."

Mary Ann has been a member of the group since February. Here's how the program works:

Washington develops in writing a hypothetical case history describing a problem. State youth advisers noodle it out and make recommendations. The reports from all states are studied and a correlated report is made.

Takles Issues

The Michigan group has tackled student deferments, the draft lottery and other issues. Now it is working on public information.

"We're trying to find out what the public actually knows or thinks about selective service," Mary Ann said. "We go out in the field for our research to get all the facts we can."

Holmes, a veteran army man, said the advisery group closes the communications gap between the generations but, more importantly, it provides fresh ideas in an area likely to be bogged down in the status quo.

"They formulate opinions and ideas, particularly on problems that are bothering young people," he said. "And they have inspired some changes in policies, in the physical examination process, for example.

Opposes Deferments

"They have told us that student deferments should be changed and the draft lottery would be a lot more equitable. This is a great service they are doing."

Mary Ann figures she might be as radical as some others, but has different ideas on how to bring about change.

"At first I was skeptical," she said. "What could a youth do to change the Establishment?

"The important thang is that they're listening. It's great. There's no way we can impose radical change but we can work to make things better.

"There's a lot of misunderstanding. Some young people think the draft boards themselves are bad. Actually, the local people are so much for the registrants. They're there to help.

"The people at Selective Service represent the Establishment, of course, but they're listening. There are a lot of inequities in the system, but there are in any system."

Mary Ann's interest includes her eight brothers, of course. Her father, Mason City Attorney John O'Brien, is a Selective Service appeals agent.

Mystery Girl In Kent Photo Was Runaway

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The mystery girl photographed leaning over the body of a student shot down at Kent State University has been found by juvenile authorities and identified as a 15-year-old runaway from Opa Locka, Fla.

Juvenile officials said she is Mary Ann Vecchio, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Vecchio, recognized her in a widely published Associated Press photograph.

Miss Vecchio talked with her mother and father by telephone Thursday night and told them: "I want to go home."

Her parents said they would come to Indianapolis and accompany her to Florida.

Miss Vecchio said that after running from Florida she hitchhiked and begged money and food. In Kent, Ohio, she said, she heard there was going to be an antiwar protest and went to the university campus.

"We were sitting in front of a building chatting when the guardsmen moved on us with gas," Miss Vecchio said "We ran around the building, then down to an open field, or maybe it was a parking lot."

When the guardsmen began shooting, she said, "I rolled down the hill and tried to hide behind a newspaper stand. That's when I saw the man go down. I ran over to him.

Three other students, two of them coeds, also were killed.

U.S. To Extend War, Tass Says

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet news commentator predicted Friday night that "Washington is going to continue" the Vietnam war for five more years.

He based his conclusions on objections raised by the U.S. government to Ford Motor Co. helping build a Soviet truck plant.

The article by Leonid Velichansky, a commenttor for the official Soviet news gency Tass was the first public Soviet response to Ford's announcement nine days ago that it was turning down a Soviet bid for assistance at the truck plant on the Kama River.

Velichansky wrote that U.S. Defense Secreatry Melvin Laird had opposed U.S. participation on grounds that trucks produced there might be sent to Communist—led troops in Vietnam and used against U.S. forces there.

The article said the plant would not be in production before 1974 and "one is led to conclude from Mr. Laird's statement that Washington is going to continue the war for five more years."

A Farm Life Close-Up

Living on a farm is a way of life that fits in a class all of its own.

There is something wonderful about farm life that is difficult to put into words. A person who has never experienced this type of living might find it difficult to understand how a life of hard work and few rewards can in fact be so rewarding. The majority of the people who were born and raised and make their living from the farm are a hard working honest class of people.

Such is the case with Al Gareau and his family. The Gareaus own and operate a 300-acre farm in the Flat Rock area of Delta County. This farm would be considered somewhat larger than the average farm for this particular area.

Gareau owns 65 to 70 head of cattle, including 35 holstein milk cows, and raises enough hay, oats, and corn for his own feeding purposes. He owns an $8,000 self-propelled combine that he uses for his crops and several other farms in the area. Tractor prices average about $5,000, silos about $1,500, conveyor type barn cleaning equipment, $1,000, milking and processing equipment, and the list goes on and on.

Profitable farming requires a lot of expensive equipment. Modern machinery has made the work load a lot lighter and allows the farmer more time, but it still takes a lot of hard work to operate a farm.

Gareau was recently presented with the "Outstanding Young Farmer of the Year" award for Delta County by the Escanaba Area Jaycees.

Selection for this award is based on an individual's ability to successfully manage and operate his own farm, and those considered must be under the age of 35.

Al was born and raised on the farm and took it over from his father. He and his wife, Sandy, have two sons, Michael, 5, and Jeffery, 1. The Gareau family enjoys life on the farm and has no desire to live elsewhere.

"After haying season is over" Al said, "I will have some extra time for painting or fixing up. There's always plenty of work that piles up."

Al goes about his daily work routine with a feeling of proudness and peace of mind that is quite enviable.

Pointing to the manure spreader, Al laughingly said, "this is the only piece of equipment I own that the company won't stand behind, at least not while it's running."

The day starts bright and early on the Gareau farm and Al usually finishes up around 6 p. m. "After supper," he said, "I like to spend the evening doing yard work or gardening."

Al and his wife are vice presidents of the Delta Merry Mixers Square Dance Club and attend the dances quite regularly.

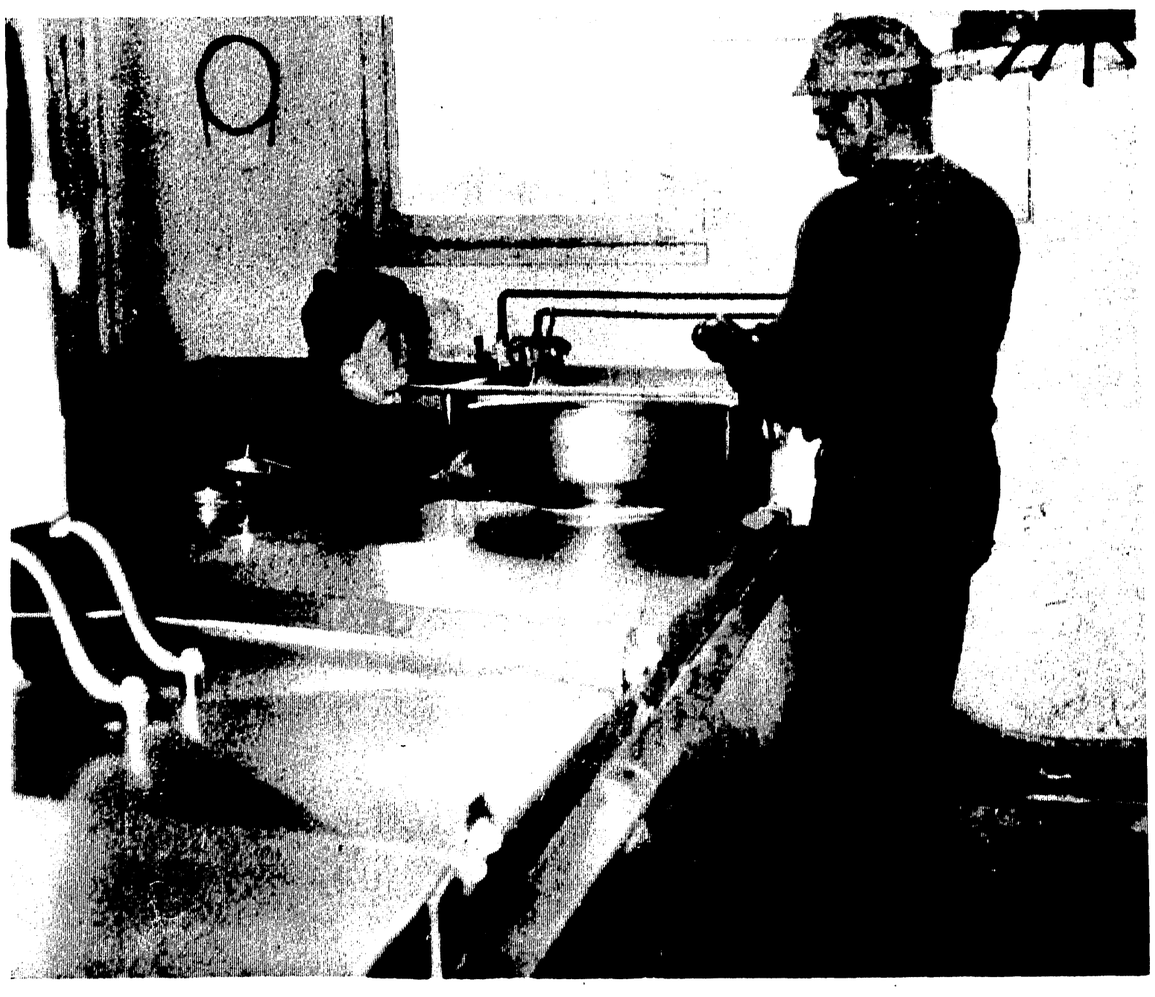

Delta County residents have a right to be proud of the Gareau family and others like them for their effort in making our area a better place to live.

Tiger Bullpen Saves Win

DETROIT (AP) — Maybe the Washington Senators haven't heard how lousy the Detroit Tiger bullpen has been this season.

Or maybe Tiger reliever Fred Scherman hasn't heard either.

Scherman picked up his first major league save, retiring six of the final seven Washington batters Friday night, as the Tigers edged the Nats 3-2 to win their third game in the last four tries.

He said afterwards that he just hasn't been able to capitalize on his opportunities so far this year.

"I just try to do my best every time," said the 25-year-old second-year Tiger who had an 0-1 record and 7.20 earned-run-average in 10 innings prior to Friday.

Brunet Pitches

The Tigers and Senators were scheduled to meet again today with Mike Kilkenny, 2-1, expected to pitch for Detroit against George Brunet, 3-4.

A two-run double by Willie Horton in the third inning following a costly error by Washington first baseman Mike Epstein opened the door to the victory.

Horton, noted for being a slugger, has only four home runs so far this year but he is batting .311 and has been stroking numerous singles and doubles (8) with ease.

"I'm just trying to stay in there, really," he said.

Meanwhile starting Tiger pitcher Joe Niekro almost stayed in there. He scattered seven hits for seven innings before an eighth inning rally brought in Scherman.

Niekro, 4-3, won his first game in the last four decisions but said "I didn't have as good stuff tonight as the last times out."

"But I used more different pitches and kept the batters off balance," he added.

Early Lead

Detroit staked him to a 2-0 lead in the third when loser Jim Hannan, 0-1, walked Al Kaline with two out and Jim Northrup followed with a ground smash to Epstein. The ball bounced on the line past the Senator first baseman for a two-base error and Horton followed with his double.

Kaline knocked in Detroit's final run off reliever Horacio Pina in the seventh with a sacrifice fly after Mickey Stanley walked, stole second and went to third on a bunt single by Dalton Jones.

Niekro gave up a solo homer to Bernie Allen in the fourth and in the eighth Frank Howard and Epstein singled to knock him from the mound. Scherman gave up a single to pinch hitter Rick Reichardt scoring the second Washington run, then blanked them the rest of the way.

It wasn't the first time Scherman faced Washington hitters. Last year he pitched against several of the same batters as a member of the International League All-Star team. He was with Toledo then and the All-Stars played an exhibition against the Senators in Louisville, Ky.

Nagel Reinstated At Iowa

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — "The future looks very bright," said Ray Nagel after being reinstated Friday night as University of Iowa football coach only four days after he had been relieved of his duties.

"Iowa has the greatest fans and friends in the country," said the 43-year-old Nagel, "and we're looking forward to the coming season with enthusiasm."

The university's Board in Control of Athletics announced Tuesday it had relieved Nagel of his duties and accepted the resignation of Athletic Director Forest Evashevski, both actions effective June 30. The board voted to fire Nagel at a special meeting Monday night.

The action came not long after disclosure that the state auditor's office was investigating falsified expense accounts filed by assistant football coaches.

The disclosure was the latest development in a long feud between Nagel and Evashevski, reporetdly centered on Evashevski's dissatisfaction with the conduct of the football program.

Nagel told a news conference Wednesday he was told he had been fired because of "disharmony" in the department. He said he was "shocked and incensed" at the action and demanded a full explanation.

The athletic board met Friday night and voted to reinstate Nagel for the duration of his present five-year contract, which expires Dec. 31.

Lasher Traded To Cleveland

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers announced Friday they have sent relief pitcher Fred Lasher to the Cleveland Indians in exchange for two players to be assigned outright to the Toledo Mud Hens of the Innternational League, the Tigers' top farm club.

Lasher will be replaced on the Detroit roster by Daryl Patterson, who is returning from active duty in the military.

In exchange for Lasher, the Mud Hens will receive outfielder Russ Nagelson, 25, 2ho has been with the Indians all season, and southpaw pitcher Bill Rohr, 24, who has played this year at the Indians' Wichita farm club of the American Association.

Lasher, 28, came to the Tigers in 1967 after several years in the Minnesota Twins farm system. In two full seasons and parts of two others with the Tigers, Lashers record is 10-6 with a 3.59 earned run average. So far this season, he is 1-3 with three saves to his credit.

Merritt Wins Duel; Reds Top Houston 5-2

By The Associated Press

The duel in the Dome didn't quite measure up to its billing, but Jim Merritt will settle for the same finish all summer long.

Merritt, Cincinnati's gifted left-hander, and Houston fireballer Larry Dierker, put 8-2 records on the line in an eye to-eyeball pitching confrontation at the Astrodome Friday night.

The Reds battered Dierker for 11 hits in seven innings, but Merritt weathered 10 in going the distance for a 5-2 victory that made him the first nine-game winner in the majors this season.

"I don't expect to keep this pace up, naturally," said Merritt, "but every game we win now, we don't have to win in September. Nine wins? It's a great feeling, and I hope I win every start I make."

Lead By 6½

The victory, coupled with Los Angeles' 1-0 loss to Atlanta, gave the Rdes a 6½-game bulge over the second place Dodgers in the National League West. San Francisco slugged San Diego 9-4; the Chicago Cubs topped the New York Mets 6-4; St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 6-3 and Montreal whipped Pittsburgh 6-3 in other NL action.

Merritt struck out six on the way to his third consecutive victory and eighth in his last nine decisions as the Reds handed Houston its fourth loss in a row.

"I've been fortunate," he said. "I've had some runs to work with and I've been fairly consistent.

"I struggled a bit tonight. It wasn't my stuff. It was my rhythm. I felt a little awkward out there. Against Dierker, I felt one run would be the difference and I was going to try to hold them as close as I could. I'm sure Dierker felt the same way."

"They just hit my mistakes," said the Houston ace, who struck out eight but was hit freely before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh. His earned run average soared to 3.08 while Merritt's dipped to 2.60.

Tony Perez and rookie Bernie Carbo each socked Dierker's mistakes for homers as the Reds overcame an early 1-0 deficit. Perez, ending an 0-for-11 famine, touched off a three-ran Cincinnati burst in the fourth with his 14th homer of the year. Carbo's seventh homer, a tape-measure shot with the bases empty in the sixth, wound up the scoring.

Dodgers Blanked

Pat Jarvis stepped Los Angeles on five hits and Hank Aaron drove in the Braves' run with a third-inning single off rookie Sandy Vance.

Felix Millan's single, also in the third, was the only other hit off Vance in the seven innings he pitched.

Ken Henderson's second grand slam homer of the season, an eighth inning shot off Tom Dukes, wrapped up the Giants' victory over San Diego. Catcher Dick Dietz, who committed two run-costing passed balls in the first inning, bounced back with a two-run homer in the fifth that sent the Giants ahead to stay.

Jim Hickman delivered three runs with a homer and double as the Cubs subdued the Mets behind Jim Colborn's one-hit relief pitching over the final 4 1-3 innings.

Julian Javier snapped a 3-3 deadlock in the eighth with a three-run double, carrying the Cardinals past Philadelphia. The Phillies had tied the game in the seventh on Johnny Briggs' two-run triple.

Mack Jones' two-run homer and a two-run triple by Jim Fairey helped Montreal build a 6-1 lead behind the five-hit pitching of Bill Stoneman.

The Escanaba softball league will swing into action Sunday with four games on tap. The games will be played at 2, 3:30, 5 and 6:30 p.m. at the Memorial Field.

This season could produce one of the best leagues in recent years, as nine teams will be involved for the league championship.

The Escanaba Merchants will be back again this year with Bill McGovern and Tony Derkos on the mound. Bob Corriveau, Keith Glusing and Jan Morin should keep the Merchants in the running for the title.

Flat Rock will have Bill Smith pitching, with several good players returning to field a veteran team in the league.

The Jolly Rogers Bar, last years Class C Champions, will have Jug Bourdeau on the mound and an all brother infield including the hot glove and quick hands of Jim Bourdeau to defend their title.

Trenary, last years runner up in Class C, will have the services of Sonney Pasanin pitching and from reports, he is going to be tough on the mound again this year. Trenary has picked up the services of big Pat Groleau behind the plate and they have a few other boys that can be a threat at the plate, and could be real tough overall.

Goebel's, last years Strohs team, will also be in the running for top honors with such players as Jim Almonroeder, Bob Irish and John Way.

Mead Paper Co. will have three fine pitchers with Dale Bittner, Ron Smith and Rick Lancour. Overall they will have a well balanced team and will be making a strong bid for first place.

The Escanaba Independents could be the dark horse in the league. If veteran Pat Moran returns to handle the pitching duties and with the strong bats of Ben Yagodzinski, Doug Moss, Phil Dambrsia, and Ken and Lee Robitaille the Independents will be tough.

A new team in the league, the Gladstone Merchants, will have alot of young players and they will be making their first bid for the league title along with the Michigan Hotel, who has picked up several new players and they will have Harold Polath on the mound and the good glove and bat of Bunny Martin.

Overall, it shapes up to be quite a year for the league.

Tiger Bullpen Saves Win

DETROIT (AP) — Maybe the Washington Senators haven't heard how lousy the Detroit Tiger bullpen has been this season.

Or maybe Tiger reliever Fred Scherman hasn't heard either.

Scherman picked up his first major league save, retiring six of the final seven Washington batters Friday night, as the Tigers edged the Nats 3-2 to win their third game in the last four tries.

He said afterwards that he just hasn't been able to capitalize on his opportunities so far this year.

"I just try to do my best every time," said the 25-year-old second-year Tiger who had an 0-1 record and 7.20 earned-run-average in 10 innings prior to Friday.

Brunet Pitches

The Tigers and Senators were scheduled to meet again today with Mike Kilkenny, 2-1, expected to pitch for Detroit against George Brunet, 3-4.

A two-run double by Willie Horton in the third inning following a costly error by Washington first baseman Mike Epstein opened the door to the victory.

Horton, noted for being a slugger, has only four home runs so far this year but he is batting .311 and has been stroking numerous singles and doubles (8) with ease.

"I'm just trying to stay in there, really," he said.

Meanwhile starting Tiger pitcher Joe Niekro almost stayed in there. He scattered seven hits for seven innings before an eighth inning rally brought in Scherman.

Niekro, 4-3, won his first game in the last four decisions but said "I didn't have as good stuff tonight as the last times out."

"But I used more different pitches and kept the batters off balance," he added.

Early Lead

Detroit staked him to a 2-0 lead in the third when loser Jim Hannan, 0-1, walked Al Kaline with two out and Jim Northrup followed with a ground smash to Epstein. The ball bounced on the line past the Senator first baseman for a two-base error and Horton followed with his double.

Kaline knocked in Detroit's final run off reliever Horacio Pina in the seventh with a sacrifice fly after Mickey Stanley walked, stole second and went to third on a bunt single by Dalton Jones.

Niekro gave up a solo homer to Bernie Allen in the fourth and in the eighth Frank Howard and Epstein singled to knock him from the mound. Scherman gave up a single to pinch hitter Rick Reichardt scoring the second Washington run, then blanked them the rest of the way.

It wasn't the first time Scherman faced Washington hitters. Last year he pitched against several of the same batters as a member of the International League All-Star team. He was with Toledo then and the All-Stars played an exhibition against the Senators in Louisville, Ky.

CLOSE AT HOME — Detroit's Mickey Stanley crosses the plate scoring the Tigers first run under the watchful eye of home plate umpire Bill Kunkel. Andy Etchebarren, Baltimore's catcher, was late on the tag and Stanley scored during the third inning when Willie Horton singled to left field. Nagel Reinstated At Iowa

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — "The future looks very bright," said Ray Nagel after being reinstated Friday night as University of Iowa football coach only four days after he had been relieved of his duties.

"Iowa has the greatest fans and friends in the country," said the 43-year-old Nagel, "and we're looking forward to the coming season with enthusiasm."

The university's Board in Control of Athletics announced Tuesday it had relieved Nagel of his duties and accepted the resignation of Athletic Director Forest Evashevski, both actions effective June 30. The board voted to fire Nagel at a special meeting Monday night.

The action came not long after disclosure that the state auditor's office was investigating falsified expense accounts filed by assistant football coaches.

The disclosure was the latest development in a long feud between Nagel and Evashevski, reporetdly centered on Evashevski's dissatisfaction with the conduct of the football program.

Nagel told a news conference Wednesday he was told he had been fired because of "disharmony" in the department. He said he was "shocked and incensed" at the action and demanded a full explanation.

The athletic board met Friday night and voted to reinstate Nagel for the duration of his present five-year contract, which expires Dec. 31.

Lasher Traded To Cleveland

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers announced Friday they have sent relief pitcher Fred Lasher to the Cleveland Indians in exchange for two players to be assigned outright to the Toledo Mud Hens of the Innternational League, the Tigers' top farm club.

Lasher will be replaced on the Detroit roster by Daryl Patterson, who is returning from active duty in the military.

In exchange for Lasher, the Mud Hens will receive outfielder Russ Nagelson, 25, 2ho has been with the Indians all season, and southpaw pitcher Bill Rohr, 24, who has played this year at the Indians' Wichita farm club of the American Association.

Lasher, 28, came to the Tigers in 1967 after several years in the Minnesota Twins farm system. In two full seasons and parts of two others with the Tigers, Lashers record is 10-6 with a 3.59 earned run average. So far this season, he is 1-3 with three saves to his credit.

Merritt Wins Duel; Reds Top Houston 5-2

By The Associated Press

The duel in the Dome didn't quite measure up to its billing, but Jim Merritt will settle for the same finish all summer long.

Merritt, Cincinnati's gifted left-hander, and Houston fireballer Larry Dierker, put 8-2 records on the line in an eye to-eyeball pitching confrontation at the Astrodome Friday night.

The Reds battered Dierker for 11 hits in seven innings, but Merritt weathered 10 in going the distance for a 5-2 victory that made him the first nine-game winner in the majors this season.

"I don't expect to keep this pace up, naturally," said Merritt, "but every game we win now, we don't have to win in September. Nine wins? It's a great feeling, and I hope I win every start I make."

Lead By 6½

The victory, coupled with Los Angeles' 1-0 loss to Atlanta, gave the Rdes a 6½-game bulge over the second place Dodgers in the National League West. San Francisco slugged San Diego 9-4; the Chicago Cubs topped the New York Mets 6-4; St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 6-3 and Montreal whipped Pittsburgh 6-3 in other NL action.

Merritt struck out six on the way to his third consecutive victory and eighth in his last nine decisions as the Reds handed Houston its fourth loss in a row.

"I've been fortunate," he said. "I've had some runs to work with and I've been fairly consistent.

"I struggled a bit tonight. It wasn't my stuff. It was my rhythm. I felt a little awkward out there. Against Dierker, I felt one run would be the difference and I was going to try to hold them as close as I could. I'm sure Dierker felt the same way."

"They just hit my mistakes," said the Houston ace, who struck out eight but was hit freely before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh. His earned run average soared to 3.08 while Merritt's dipped to 2.60.

Tony Perez and rookie Bernie Carbo each socked Dierker's mistakes for homers as the Reds overcame an early 1-0 deficit. Perez, ending an 0-for-11 famine, touched off a three-ran Cincinnati burst in the fourth with his 14th homer of the year. Carbo's seventh homer, a tape-measure shot with the bases empty in the sixth, wound up the scoring.

Dodgers Blanked

Pat Jarvis stopped Los Angeles on five hits and Hank Aaron drove in the Braves' run with a third-inning single off rookie Sandy Vance.

Felix Millan's single, also in the third, was the only other hit off Vance in the seven innings he pitched.

Ken Henderson's second grand slam homer of the season, an eighth inning shot off Tom Dukes, wrapped up the Giants' victory over San Diego. Catcher Dick Dietz, who committed two run-costing passed balls in the first inning, bounced back with a two-run homer in the fifth that sent the Giants ahead to stay.

Jim Hickman delivered three runs with a homer and double as the Cubs subdued the Mets behind Jim Colborn's one-hit relief pitching over the final 4 1-3 innings.

Julian Javier snapped a 3-3 deadlock in the eighth with a three-run double, carrying the Cardinals past Philadelphia. The Phillies had tied the game in the seventh on Johnny Briggs' two-run triple.

Mack Jones' two-run homer and a two-run triple by Jim Fairey helped Montreal build a 6-1 lead behind the five-hit pitching of Bill Stoneman.

Weiskopf Takes Second Round Lead At Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Chuck Courtney, a quiet Californian, had barely begun his second round in the $125,000 Atlanta Golf Classic Friday when tall Tom Weiskopf took control at the halfway point with an 11-under-par 133.

Courtney, a 29-year-old bachelor who joined the PGA tour in 1964, fashioned his second straight 67 over the hilly, 7,053-yard Atlanta Country Club course as sweltering 90-degree heat baked the fairways, greens and players for the second straight day.

Courtney's 134 total gave him second place by two shots over a trio deadlocked at 136 -Gary Player, Tommy Aaron and Dan Sikes, whose 65 was the low score of the second round.

"I always feel pressure," said Courtney. "Anybody that says they don't are just kidding themselves. But the secret is Arnold Palmer's secret when he was playing so well. You've got to get fired up without getting nrvous."

Asked if he hoped to catch Weiskopf in today's third round, Courtney smiled and replied, "I'd like to catch him Sunday."

That's pay day, with $25,000 going to the champion, an amount only $85 less than Courtney won in 1967—his best money-winning year on the tour.

"I hit my irons extremely close to the hole all day," said Courtney. "I feel like I'm hitting the putts greatl but they're just not going in. I hit all the greens on the back side but had a couple lip outs."

Meanwhile, Weiskopf had added a 68 to his opening round 65, stringing out nine straight pars on the back after knocking in four birdies going out.

"I think its the best two rounds I've put together since I've been on the tour," said the 6-foot-3 Weiskopf. "I continued to putt well, had some good lags and I kept hitting it to the pin."

Player, the little South African, was charging for the lead after turning the first nine in 32, four under par.

"I had it going so well," Player said, as he thought of what might have been. "I think No. 10 prevented me from shooting 64."

It was on No. 10 that Player missed a two-foot putt that would have given him another birdie.

"I got a little shook up," he said. "I missed another two-footer at 16 and took a bogey. I guess I just ran out of gas putting on the back side."

Two Atlanta Classic champions, Bert Yancey in 1969 and Bob Lunn in 1968, were deadlocked at 137 with veteran Kel Nagle.

Jack Nicklaus, who sank an 80-foot putt for an eagle on the 577-yard No. 8, and Lee Elder stood at 138.

Eight players were lodged at 139, including Homero Blancas who skied to a 74 after sharing the first round lead at 65. Others at 139 were John Schroeder, Arnold Palmer, Frank Beard, Doug Sanders, George Knudson, Lou Graham and Larry Hinson.

Pacers Can Win ABA Title Today

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The Indiana Pacers can capture the American Basketball Association championship today by beating the Los Angeles Stars as the best-of-7 playoff series returns to Indianapolis.

And the Stars' coach, Bill Sharman, is among the first to admit his team has had a hard time handling the Pacers, who have a 3-1 lead.

"We have to get an extra special job to handle these guys," Sharman said. "They've got everything—speed, size, shooting depth, balance, you name it."

Coach Bob Leonard says his Pacers aren't taking the Stars for granted.

"Los Angeles is not coming here just to see the playoffs come to an end," Leonard said. "Sharman has done a great job with that ball club."

Ohio State Eyes Baseball Crown

CHICAGO (AP)— The Buckeyes of Ohio State virtually clinched the Big Ten baseball title Friday with a doubleheader sweep against Wisconsin.

Ohio State ran its perfect record to 12-0 with 8-7 and 5-3 triumphs over the Badgers to take a full game lead over idle Minnesota which has a 13-3 record.

Despite the outcome of weekend competition, the final results of the race cannot be determined since Ohio State still must act on a pair of postponed doubleheaders.

The Buckeyes, because of campus disturbances, called off doubleheaders against Michigan and Michigan State earlier in the season. If these games are made up, their results will determine finally the race in which the Big Ten champion automatically qualifies for the NCAA playoffs.

If these games are not rescheduled, Ohio State, which handed Minnesota two of its three losses, will win the conference title even if the Buckeyes drop a pair to Northwestern which has a 1-13 record.

Michigan downed Illinois twice 6-1 and 3-1 as pitcher Pete Helt yielded only four hits in the opener and drove in the winning run with a single. Pitcher Mickey Elwood tossed a four-hitter in the nightcap and added his own cause with a double and a single.

Purdue downed Michigan State twice 5-1 and 2-1 and Indiana slugged Northwestern twice, 12-3 and 11-1.

Chance's Homecoming Party Spoiled; Yanks Blast Tribe

By The Associated Press

Dean Chance Night turned into a nightmare for the Cleveland right-hander with his Indians' teammates acting like strangers and the New York Yankees getting all the gifts.

Chance, obtained by the Indians from Minnesota over the winter, was the recipient of a welcome home night from his friends in his hometown of Wooster, Ohio, but lasted only three innings as the Yankees whipped the Indians 7-4 Friday night.

The 28-year-old Chance, was ripped for three first inning runs, including a two-run homer by Roy White but was victimized by a leaky Cleveland defense in the third when the Yanks added three more runs on three errors.

In other American League games, Baltimore ripped Boston 7-4, California edged Minnesota 3-2, Oakland nipped Chicago 9-8 Detroit edged Washington 3-2 and Kansas City thumped Milwaukee 6-3.

"That one bad defensive inning killed us," said Alvin Dark, the Indians' pilot. "This was the first time this year we played bad defensively."

Unearned Runs

In all the Indians made five errors. All three third-inning runs off Chance, 1-4, who was rocked for eight hits in his brief stint, were unearned.

The Yanks, on the other hand, "were great defensively," Dark said. Gene Michael (Yankee shortstop) made three plays that were on the verge of being truly great."

Winner Fritz Peterson struggled to his sixth victory against two defeats but needed sixth-inning relief from Jack Aker. Tony Horton had a solo homer for the Indians.

Boog Powell's 12th homer of the season broke a sixth-inning deadlock and the Orioles added a pair in the eighth on hits by Brooks Robinson and Dave Johnson. Powell added a pair of doubles while George Scott ripped a homer and two doubles and Tony Conigliaro stroked four straight hits for the Red Sox.

Twins Beaten

Ken McMullen and Jim Spencer drilled home runs as the Angels snapped Minnesota's winning streak at seven and edged to within one-half game of first place in the West.

McMullen and Spencer each 6-3 with the eventual winning run coming across on left-hander Clyde Wright's seventh inning single. Wright, 6-2, needed relief help in the eighth from Paul Doyle, who surrendered a solo homer to Rick Renick.

Felipe Alou's two-run double enabled the A's to tie the White Sox at 8-8 in the eighth inning and moments later Alou scored the winner as Chicago's right fielder John Matias dropped Don Mincher's fly ball.

The A's overcame an 8-1 Chicago lead with four-run rallies in the sixth and eighth innings. Chicago had a six-run first, capped by Ed Herrmann's three-run homer and Carlos May added a two-run belt in the fourth.

Bob Oliver drove in a pair of runs with a bases-loaded single and scored two tallies in the Royals' triumph. Mike Walton, the Brewers hard-hitting outfielder, drew five straight bases on balls.

Weiskopf Takes Second Round Lead At Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Chuck Courtney, a quiet Californian, had barely begun his second round in the $125,000 Atlanta Golf Classic Friday when tall Tom Weiskopf took control at the halfway point with an 11-under-par 133.

Courtney, a 29-year-old bachelor who joined the PGA tour in 1964, fashioned his second straight 67 over the hilly, 7,053-yard Atlanta Country Club course as sweltering 90-degree heat baked the fairways, greens and players for the second straight day.

Courtney's 134 total gave him second place by two shots over a trio deadlocked at 136 -Gary Player, Tommy Aaron and Dan Sikes, whose 65 was the low score of the second round.

"I always feel pressure," said Courtney. "Anybody that says they don't are just kidding themselves. But the secret is Arnold Palmer's secret when he was playing so well. You've got to get fired up without getting nrvous."

Asked if he hoped to catch Weiskopf in today's third round, Courtney smiled and replied, "I'd like to catch him Sunday."

That's pay day, with $25,000 going to the champion, an amount only $85 less than Courtney won in 1967—his best money-winning year on the tour.

"I hit my irons extremely close to the hole all day," said Courtney. "I feel like I'm hitting the putts greatl but they're just not going in. I hit all the greens on the back side but had a couple lip outs."

Meanwhile, Weiskopf had added a 68 to his opening round 65, stringing out nine straight pars on the back after knocking in four birdies going out.

"I think its the best two rounds I've put together since I've been on the tour," said the 6-foot-3 Weiskopf. "I continued to putt well, had some good lags and I kept hitting it to the pin."

Player, the little South African, was charging for the lead after turning the first nine in 32, four under par.

"I had it going so well," Player said, as he thought of what might have been. "I think No. 10 prevented me from shooting 64."

It was on No. 10 that Player missed a two-foot putt that would have given him another birdie.

"I got a little shook up," he said. "I missed another two-footer at 16 and took a bogey. I guess I just ran out of gas putting on the back side."

Two Atlanta Classic champions, Bert Yancey in 1969 and Bob Lunn in 1968, were deadlocked at 137 with veteran Kel Nagle.

Jack Nicklaus, who sank an 80-foot putt for an eagle on the 577-yard No. 8, and Lee Elder stood at 138.

Eight players were lodged at 139, including Homero Blancas who skied to a 74 after sharing the first round lead at 65. Others at 139 were John Schroeder, Arnold Palmer, Frank Beard, Doug Sanders, George Knudson, Lou Graham and Larry Hinson.

It took a score of one-over-par 145 or better to survive the cut for the final 3 holes today and Sunday, with 74 players on or under the mark.

Attend the Church of Your Choice

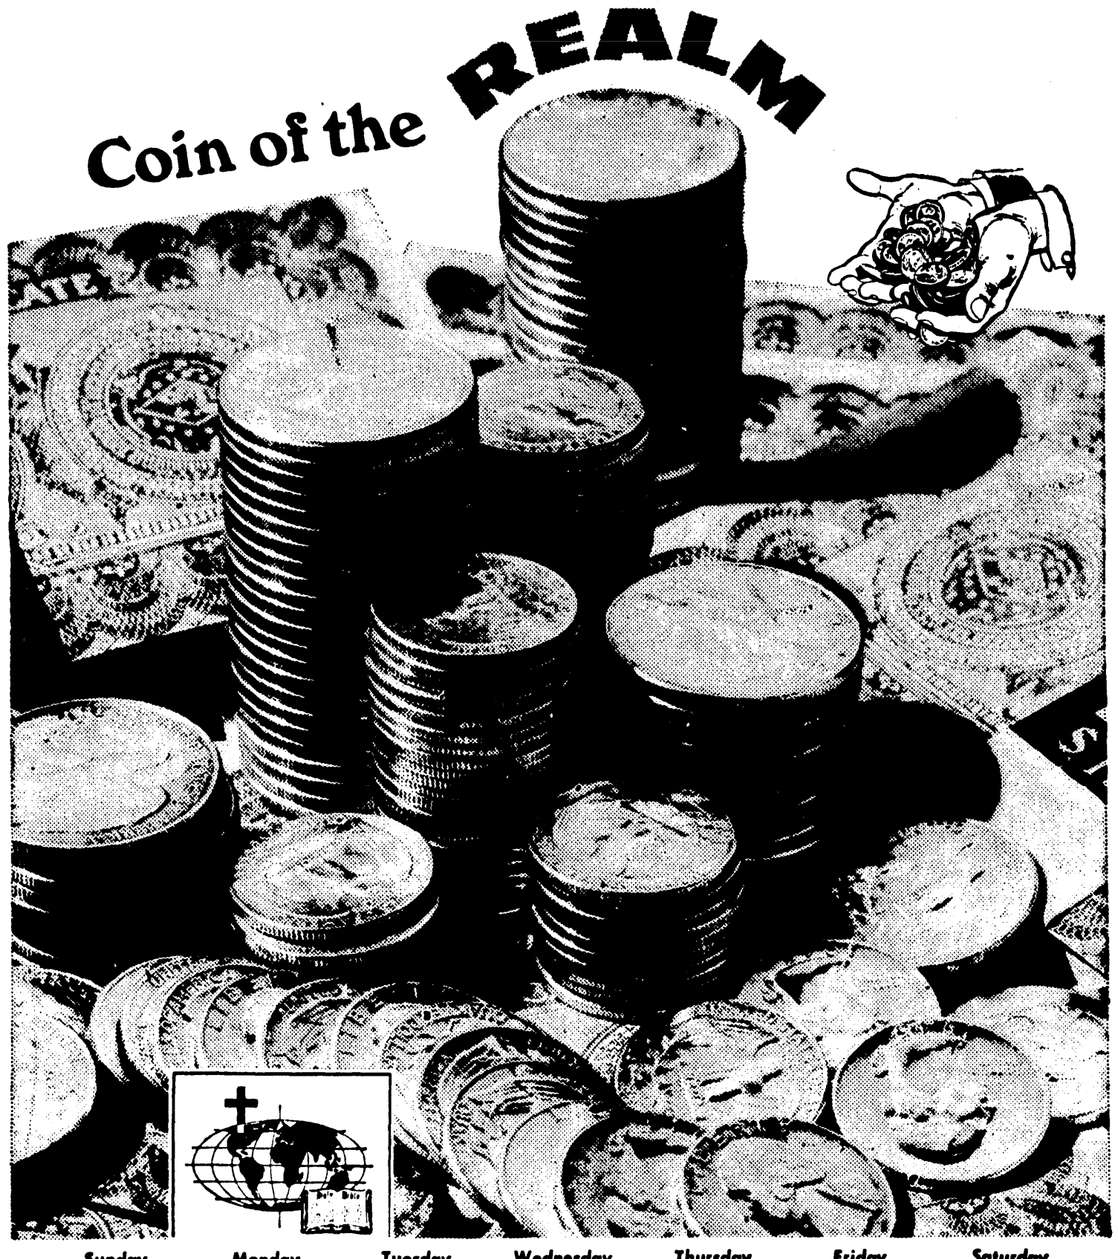

Money, money, money. Sometimes it seems that all people talk about is money. Some heard it, others let it slip through their fingers. But, whether spender or saver, no one is unmindful of it.

Sometimes it seems as though even in church we hear too much about money. Isn't that the one place where money shouldn't be mentioned at all?

No.

It isn't money that is at fault, but our attitude toward it. In earlier times, we gave of our services, trading one thing for another. Today we use money as a medium of exchange. It is the spirit in our use of that exchange, in both our spending and saving, that counts.

So, give to the church of your choice. Give generously, if you can. But even if you can't give — go.

Attend the Church of Your Choice

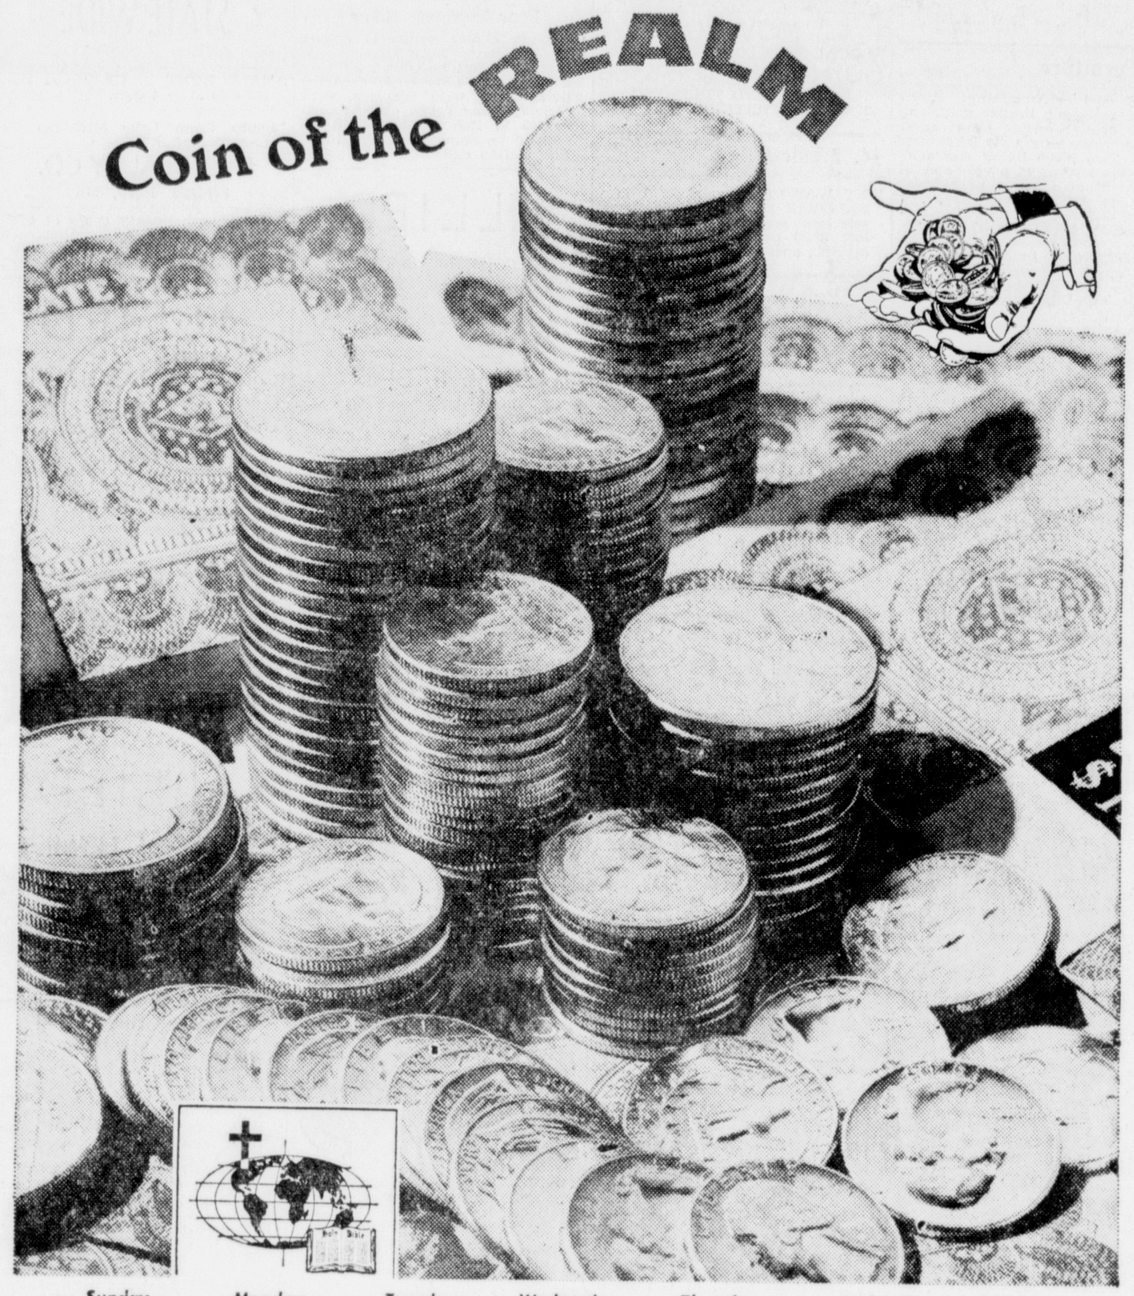

Money, money, money. Sometimes it seems that all people talk about is money. Some hoard it, others let it slip through their fingers. But, whether spender or saver, no one is unmindful of it.

Sometimes it seems as though even in church we hear too much about money. Isn't that the one place where money shouldn't be mentioned at all?

No.

It isn't money that is at fault, but our attitude toward it. In earlier times, we gave of our services, trading one thing for another. Today we use money as a medium of exchange. It is the spirit in our use of that exchange, in both our spending and saving, that counts.

So, give to the church of your choice. Give generously, if you can. But even if you can't give — go.

New UAW Chief To Join March On Civil Rights

DETROIT (AP) — Leonard Woodcock—newly elected president of the United Auto Workers Union—went to Georgia today as a visible symbol that the giant union's emphasis on social action and civil rights did not die with Walter P. Reuther.

Woodcock announced shortly after his unanimous election Friday by the UAW's 24-member International Executive Board that he planned to join the "march against repression" being led through Georgia by the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The UAW's "attention to outside problems," a hallmark of 24 year Reuther's tenure, would not change, Woodcock said.

Reuther was killed in a plane crash two weeks ago.

Attends Meeting

Woodcock also broke precedent on his initial day on the job when he became the first UAW president to attend General Motors Corp.'s annual stockholders meeting.

In a news conference after being sworn in as president, Woodcock announced he would join the Georgia march today in support of blacks.

Talks About Talks

In his first speech as president, Woodcock told a meeting of the UAW's Ford Council that just because Ford was struck three years ago to win a pattern-setting contract doesn't rule that company out as possible No. 1 target in 1970 new contract negotiations.

On the other hand, he said, General Motors, was a possibility, adding that Chrysler "might well be, because it might be easier to get an agreement from the weakest."

While sales and profits of GM and Ford have been slipping, Chrysler reported a first-quarter loss.

Woodcock said agricultural implement members of the UAW are better off in several respects then auto workers: among other things a $100 vacation bonus, $75 payable at the start and $25 upon return to work.

As implement workers also get the Christmas-New Years week off with pay and there is no waiting week for supplemental unemployment benefits to cut in when layoffs occur.

He said there was no reason the same treatment should not be accorded by GM, Ford and Chrysler.

8-Cent Stamp Wins Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee is expected to vote Monday on a postal reform bill that would give the Nixon administration authority to boost first class mail rates from six to eight cents.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, said Friday the compromise bill has won tentative White House support and the panel would vote on it Monday. But he added that many changes could be made before final enactment.

McGee said the bill includes these features:

—Authority for the administration to raise first class letter rates from six to eight cents—a 33 per cent increase. This, however, can be accomplished only if the administration first enacts a 33 per cent hike in second class (newspapers and magazines) and third class (chiefly advertising material).

—An additional 8 per cent pay hike for the 725,000 postal employes. A six per cent pay increase for postal and other government workers has already been approved by Congress.

—Creation of an independent agency run by a nine-member board of governors named by the President to administer the Post Office Department. The board would select a postmaster general who would no longer be a Cabinet member.

—Authorize the President to name a five-member commission to fix postal rates.

—Permit the new agency to work out collective bargaining agreements with postal unions.

Nixon reportedly favors the first class mail rate increase to help pay the largest part of the $1.5 billion annual deficit expected for the department in fiscal 1971.

Hit By Ball, Boy, 9, Dies

GAYLORD (AP) — Nine-year-old Timothy Alexander died Friday after being hit in the chest with a line-drive during a Little League baseball practice in Gaylord.

Witnesses told police the boy had been playing first base when a "screaming" line drive struck him in the chest. They said Timothy took a couple steps toward first base and collapsed.

He was taken to Gaylord Memorial hospital where he was reported dead on arrival.

Timothy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee E. Alexander of Gaylord.

Police said the results of an autopsy performed this morning were not immediately available.

Fulbright Charges TV Battles 'Staged'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accusing government crews of sometimes staging battlefield scenes, Sen. J. W. Fulbright has demanded the Pentagon quit supplying Vietnam newsfilm to commercial television stations.

The Arkansas Democrat and war critic cited Friday three specific occasions in which he said Pentagon newsfilm teams had created battlefield incidents.

"Never before," declared Fulbright, "have our democratic institutions been so seriously threatened by an administration . . . uninhibited in presenting inaccurate or misleading information in order to sell offical policies."

Fulbright's remarks came in a letter to commentator Walter Cronkite of CBS News, who one day earlier disputed what he said were government charges the network had faked battlefield events.

In a separate letter to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Fulbright demanded an end to the program in which government-shot film from Vietnam is passed on to the networks.

The letter to Laird was not disclosed in detail, but in the one to Cronkite, Fulbright said the Defense Department was guilty of the same "fraudulent press practices" of which CBS said it was accused.

As examples, he named a film showing local Vietnamese forces with American advisers protecting villages, another showing Vietnamese flying AC47 gunships at night, and a third depicting U.S. and Vietnamese troops operating together at a fire support base.

The senator said he had been informed by the head of one of five Pentagon newsfilm crews in Vietnam that each had been deliberately staged.

Jackson Hopes Calm Prevails

JACKSON, Miss (AP) — City officials are hoping for a return to calm following the funeral of James Earl Green, one of two students killed at Jackson State College May 15.

Police reported an atmosphere of strained quiet Friday night and maintained their watch for further firebomb incidents. Eight white-owned establishments in black neighborhoods have been the targets of firebombings or attempted firebombings since Green and Phillip Gibbs, 21, were shot to death by police during a disturbance at the predominantly black college.

Green's funeral at a Masonic temple drew some 4,000 persons, including a delegation of eight U.S. senators and nine congressmen. A brief graveside service followed at a nearby cemetery.

Senate To Vote Early In Week On Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate plans to vote early next week on whether to modify a proposal to curb U.S. military activities in Cambodia, but the outcome appears unlikely to settle the issue.

This became apparent when Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., one of the Republicans opposed to such a curb, said Friday he will vote for an amendment that revises the language in a proposal by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho.

Cooper and Church offered the revised language Thursday in a bid to reach an accommodation, but Republican leaders said the White House feels it fails to go far enough toward upholding President Nixon's authority to protect U.S. troops in Camboooodia and Vietnam.

Approvsal Likely

Griffin said he would support the revision because it improves the original Cooper-Church amendment, which he opposes. Cooper-Church forces claim 53 Senate votes, so the revision is likely to be approved.

But the tally won't reflect the true Senate division on the issue. Republican backing for the revision will camouflage what most tallies indicate is the administration's minority position.

Approval of the revision still leaves open the possibility that administration supporters will move via a series of proposals to give the President the authority he seeks. And there is no indication of an early vote on the Cooper-Church amendment itself.

Basic Issue

The basic issue is this: the White House is willing to go along with the main prohibition on funds for U.S. forces in Cambodia, provided the President is given explicit authority to take actions to protect American forces in both Vietnam and Cambodia.

The Cooper-Church forces oppose any such exception, because Nixon ordered the original attack into Cambodia with the announced aim of protecting U.S. forces in Vietnam, and they want to avoid a repetition.

The revised language to be voted on Tuesday would leave intact the Cooper-Church amendment's substantive ban on funds for "retaining" U.S. forces in Cambodia and restricting U.S. aid and use of airpower.

Two Elements Added

It would add two elements to the amendment's preamble: a provision making clear the fund cutoff only takes effect after July 1, 1970—the date Nixon said U.S. forces would be out of Cambodia—and language making clear the action is being undertaken "in concert with the declared objectives of the President of the United States to avoid the involvement of the United States in Cambodia after July 1, 1970."

ISRAELI SOLDIERS check Israeli-Lebanese border area where a school bus was ambushed Friday. Eleven Israelis were killed in the bazooka and small arms attack as the bus headed towards a border school. (AP Wirephoto.)

Israeli Troops, Tanks Prepare 'Bus' Reprisals

By The Associated Press

Israel is massing troops and tanks on the Lebanese border to prepare more reprisals for the guerrilla ambush of an Israeli school bus, official sources in Beirut said today.

They said the troops were positioned on the eastern and central sectors of the 50-mile frontier and that Israeli tanks were grouping north of Acre on the Mediterranean coast 12 miles south of the border. Eight children and three adults were killed Friday when Arab guerrillas fired three bazooka shells into the school bus near the Lebanese border. Twenty-two other persons were wounded.

Within half an hour after the ambush, according to military communiques issued in Beirut, the Israelis opened heavy artillery fire on four Lebanese border towns. Israeli warplanes also went into action all along the frontier.

Lebanese officials said 20 persons were killed and 20 wounded in the reprisal raids and that 80 houses were destroyed.

The Lebanese government braced for more trouble today. Hundreds of civilians in towns that were shelled piled their belongings aboard trucks, taxis and donkeys, and fled their homes.

Many complained of lack of adequate shelters or means of defense. One man brandished a World War I rifle and a few bullets and said, "This is all I had to defend myself with."

The newspaper Le Jour quoted the mayor of Aitaroun as saying: "In this town of 8,000 people, there will soon remain only the owls."

Lebanese Ambassador Edouard Ghorra said in a letter to the United Nations that "we deplore the loss of life" in the attack on the bus. But he added that Lebanon did not know who did it and could not be held responsible.

U.S. Condemns Attack

The U.S. State Department called for condemnation of the attack "by the world community," but also expressed shock at Israel's reprisal attacks.

Britain called the ambush "a cruel act of terrorism" and said it would raise the issue at the United Nations.

In New York, eight men entered the office of the Palestine Liberation movement and beat an official of the organization, Sadat Hasan. A woman in the office said they ransacked six rooms. Hasan was reported in satisfactory condition.

A short while later, six men entered the office of the Action Committee on Arab-American Relations and beat an official and another man there.

The leader of the militant Jewish Defense League in New York, Rabbi Meir Kahane, said he approved of the attacks. But he denied that members of his group made them.

Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir expressed "shock and horror," and said she holds Lebanon responsible for guerrillas operating from Lebanese territory.

A small guerrilla group based in Amman, Jordan, claimed it had ordered the attack in revenge for the Israeli bombing raid that Egypt said hit a school last April 8 and left 30 children dead. Israel has insisted that attack was against military installations.

Troops, Tanks Push Toward VC Regiment

SAIGON (AP) — Two South Vietnamese task forces launched a two-pronged thrust today into Indochina's biggest rubber plantation, the 70-square-mile Chup plantation in eastern Cambodia.

About 10,000 South Vietnamese troops and hundreds of tanks and armored personnel carriers pushed northward along Highway 15 and westward along Route 7 toward the plantation to smash a crack Viet Cong regiment said to be operating there.

The plantation is east of Kompong Cham, Cambodia's third largest city.

Associated Press correspondent David Rosenzweig reported from the front that Task Force 318, driving northward toward the plantation's southern edge, killed 12 Khmer Rouge, the Viet Cong's Cambodian allies, and captured 13.

To the east of the plantation, 25 other enemy troops were reported killed.

Two South Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed and 11 wounded.

Guns Knocked Out

South Vietnamese bombers knocked out eight antiaircraft guns in the southwestern corner of the plantation, officers said.

Lt. Gen. Do Cao Tri, commander of the South Vietnamese forces, said intelligence indicated that most of the 272nd Regiment of the Viet Cong 9th Division was on the plantation.

A captured North Vietnamese soldier told South Vietnamese interrogators that 2,000 men of the 272nd were there. According to allied intelligence estimates, about 80 per cent of the regiment is made up of North Vietnamese soldiers.

"This is a hunting game between my forces and the Communists," said Tri. "If the Communists stand and fight we will destroy them."

The main objective of the drive is to destroy the regiment, but the South Vietnamese forces also hope to link up with Vietnamese civilian irregulars and open up Route 7 east of Kompong Cham.

Near Konpong Cham

The South Vietnamese task force moving along Route 7 had advanced by midafternoon today to within 12 miles of Kompong Cham. The city is about 35 miles from the Vietnamese border and 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

U.S. advisers reportedly pulled out of the operation before the Vietnamese crossed the 21.7 mile limit of penetration set for American troops by President Nixon.

The drive kicked off the fifth phase of South Vietnamese operations along Route 1, the high-

No Lid On Vice President

Agnew Rips Into Media

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has taken another swing at what he terms the "liberal news media of this country," adding he will continue to do so until they lower their voices a few decibels.

Speaking to about 600 Republicans at a $500-a-plate fund raising dinner Friday night, Agnew said President Nixon "has refused to curb my statements on behalf of this administration or to tell me what words to use or what tone to take in my speeches."

Among his targets were the New York Times, the New York Post and the Washington Post, from which he cited editorial comments. Television and radio also came under criticism again.

"Nowhere is the complaint louder than in the columns and editorials of the liberal news media of this country, those really illiberal, self-appointed guardians of our destiny who would like to run the country without ever submitting to the elective process as we in public office must do," he said.

As Agnew spoke, about 300 antiwar demonstrators marched outside the hotel where he was speaking. No trouble was reported.

Leaving the news media, Agnew turned to another of his favorite targets, campus demonstrators.

He attributed campus unrest to a "small hard core of hell raisers who want to overturn the system for the sake of chaos alone." Although they are few in number they have a shattering impact, he said.

Campus dissenters are encouraged by an equally small number of faculty members who apparently cannot compete legitimately within the system or do not chose to do so, Agnew said.

"It is my honest opinion that this hard core of faculty and students should be identified and dismissed from the otherwise healthy body of the college community lest they, like a cancer, destroy it," he said.

As for congressional critics on the President's Southeast Asia policy, the vice president said the senators are well intentioned, but have been in Congress so long that it has narrowed their viewpoint.

Agnew will address the opening session of the International Cancer Congress Sunday in Houston.

Soldier Alleges My Lai 'Ordered'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A young soldier charged in connection with the alleged My Lai massacre in Vietnam says his unit attacked the village on orders from its commanding officer.

"We were told to kill every living thing and destroy all the houses," Spec. 4 William H. T'Souvas, 20, told a news conference Friday.

T'Souvas, who was 18 at the time of the alleged massacre in March 1968, said the village was a known Viet Cong and North Vietnamese army stronghold.

He said the order to destroy it came from Capt. Ernest Medina, his company commander who also has been charged in connection with the incident.

T'Souvas was accompanied at the news conference by his civilian attorney, George T. Davis of San Francisco, who allowed him to answer all but one question: Did you kill anyone?

David said a reply would go to the heart of the charges against T'Souvas and would be improper at the time. He said T'Souvas was accused of killing two children at My Lai and, if the slayings occured, they were mercy killings. The attorney said the children already were mortally wounded.

The final meeting of the Holy Name Parent's Club was held recently in the multi-purpose room of the school.

The following new officers were elected: Arnold Taylor, president; Ellsworth Viau, vice-president; Mrs. William Beckstrom, secretary; and Mrs. Robert Groos, treasurer.

The Holy Name Home Economics department under the direction of Sister Annellus presented a style show with students modeling the articles they had completed during the year. The home ec. department was also in charge of serving refreshments after the meeting.

U.S. To Widen River At Sault

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (AP)—U.S. plans to widen and deepen six areas in the St. Marys River between Lakes Huron and Superior have been approved by Canadian federal and provincial agencies, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said Friday.

The expansion is to facilitate movement of larger vessels, especially 1,000 foot super-carriers, the first of which is expected to begin operating next year, a Corps spokesman said. Completion is scheduled for late 1973.

The plan was approved at a meeting between Corps representatives and officials from the Ontario Water Resources Commission, the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, and the federal Department of Public Works.

Last year the Corps opened the new Poe Lock in the Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., lock system, the only lock specifically designed for super-tankers.

QUICK QUIP

HONOLULU (AP) — Gov. John A. Burns had a quick quip for a visiting high school student who wanted to know if Burns enjoyed being governor. "I feel like the man who was tarred and feathered and run out of town on a rail," Burns said. "If it weren't for the honor of it, I would just as soon walk."

Curb Pollution, Youngsters Ask

Community Pride Day of Michigan Week brought from sixth graders of Delta County many letters on the subject "Why I Like Delta County", and their thoughts (in the majority) turned to the need to preserve the area's outdoor beauty.

The essays of the young people were encouraged in a Community Pride Day project arranged by Mrs. Robert Mosenfelder, Escanaba, Pride Day chairman. A score or more of the letters have been published this week by the Escanaba Daily Press as a public service.

Today's letters continue the theme of pride and pleasure in a clean countryside.

Stop Pollution

"We are glad to have our beautiful parks, forests and sports. I want everyone to keep the trash in the car or in a garbage can. Don't leave it on the ground. Stop the pollution by cleaning the parks and the roads we drive on.

"Don't throw beer cans into the water because we are slowly polluting our lake, oceans, and streams. Do you like pollution? You can stop it! We all can do it so help us clean up the parks. It would be nice for everyone to work together to stop pollution. I like Delta County."

Danny Hamilton

More Maical Here

"There are many reasons I like to live in Delta County, but I think the main reason is because of the beauty. I've lived here all my life and some of the things I have seen just make me feel like — well, I guess I just don't know how I feel. How do you feel when you see a nest of baby rabbits, a woodland stream in the fall with all those beautiful leaves, a winter wonderland when the trees are just a bit frosted? These are only a few of the very many things. I have seen. I'm not saying that other places don't have this to offer but it just seems a little more magical here because its home."

Connie McGraw

Children Will Help

"I like Delta County because there isn't too much pollution or smog. We have pretty good waterways that are clean. Some rivers are very full of trash.

We could help that by posting signs for $200 fines for polluters.

"If that didn't work we could get children from schools and pick up the trash. We could do this twice a week. The kids probably wouldn't care because they would be getting out of some work. Scientists could make robots that could pick up trash all over the United States.

"The people who did get caught throwing rubish on the highways should get a $200 fine, that is if it isn't just a gum wrapper. If it is a gum wrapper they should give them a $1 fine and the person go and pick it up even if its 15 miles away. Some people get away with too much.

"Of course everyone throws away some rubbish on the streets. Even if its a crumb of paper it piles up and can get worse. Lets hope it doesn't get too bad!"

Soo Hill Schedules Fluoride Program

The summer topical fluoride program will be held in Soo Hill at the Soo Hill School June 10-18 and at the Wells School in Wells June 19-29, according to Mrs. Orval Morrison and Mrs. John Gilbert, cochairmen of the Soo Hill Fluoride Program, which sponsors the program in cooperation with the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Mrs. Morrison said 230 children have enrolled in the program. The procedure consists of four visits to the clinic at approximately two day intervals. The child's teeth are cleaned on the first visit and a fluoride solution is applied to the surfaces of the teeth.

The fluoride application is then repeated during the three succeeding visits. This technique has been shown to reduce tooth decay by about 40 per cent compared to the 60 to 65 per cent reduction obtained with fluoridated water, she said.

In addition to providing protection against cavities, the program offers a valuable dental experience for children with no discomfort. Dental health education by the clinic personnel also is an important part of the program, Mrs. Gilbert said.

Parents of children enrolled in the program will receive appointment cards about two weeks prior to their children's first appointment.

In addition to the clinic in the Soo Hill and Wells area, about 40,000 children will be receiving fluoride applications this summer in 200 similar clinics throughout the state. This is the first year that a program has been conducted in Soo Hill and Wells.

NMU Situation To Be Reviewed

MARQUETTE — The president of Northern Michigan University reportedly has agreed to meet next week with a member of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission to discuss reported racial unrest on the campus.

George Gullen Jr., a member of the eight - man commission will meet Wednesday morning with John X. Jamrich, university president, said Tom Peloso, acting director of the commission. He said William Bledsoe, an assistant attorney general, would join the discussion.

In a telegram to Jamrich, Julian Cook, commission chairman, said:

"On behalf of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission I express our deep concern for the questions being raised by the black students as they relate to their safety on the NMU campus."

The commission's concerns are urgent, Cook said.

Jamrich, who Friday said in a telegram to Gov. William Milliken that proposed investigations of black student unrest at NMU would be "most detrimental to a fine state university," was unavailable for comment this morning.

Sea Grant

Jonathan W. Bulkley of Ann Arbor, an assistant professor of water resources in the School of Natural Resources who also does some work as an assistant professor in the School of Engineering at the University of Michigan, is a conservationist with a rather practical point of view.

Journalists in the Upper got an inside look at Bulkley's views and through him those of other U-M scientists involved in the University's Sea Grant program studying the Great Lakes at a dinner program the other night at the House of Ludington. Bulkley is firmly against water pollution — "water quality is going to be the most critical problem with these lakes," he said —and yet is sensible enough to realize that maintaining quality isn't something that can be done simply by throwing a switch.

Bulkley pointed out that the "flush out" time on Lake Michigan is about 100 years. That is, he continued, if a drop of water could be traced through the lake from the time it entered it would take about 100 years before it would be flushed out. That means waste put into the lake 50 and 75 years ago is still there, he said.

Yet, rational solutions have to be tempered by political reality, he added.

The question is "How does the public view the Great Lakes?"

"Do we view them as a trust to be preserved for the future, or should we exploit them now and let the future worry about itself?" he asked. "If we are to preserve them in trust, then radical changes are needed."

The question of trust is one not easily answered. For example, is there a point at which the economic benefit today might override the environmental questions for the future?

Bulkley said the "decisions we are making now are going to have far reaching consequences" in the future and it is one of the purposes of the Sea Grant program to develop the data and information — both on resource attributes of a lake and also man's use of the resource — on which to base those decisions.

"We hope to be able to predict what's going to happen to the Great Lakes" under a given set of circumstances, he said. "We hope to avoid the situation of generating unforseen consequences."

Bulkley pointed out, for example, that on a new aircraft design it's better to find out what's to happen on a model than on a prototype, "We don't want to get up in an airplane and find the wings fall off," he continued, "so we put a model in a wind tunnel first."

That same principal, he said, would be applied in the Sea Grant study of the Great Lakes.

The Sea Grant program will use Grand Traverse Bay, across Lake Michigan from Escanaba, as a "model" for Lake Michigan and 23 scientists and researchers will descend on Traverse City to begin gathering data on the areas.

Once data on resource attributes and resource uses are assembled, the members of the investigating study team will be able to make use of statistics and probability in describing the situation under examination. "Thus, they will have the scientific tools for predicting how any given input will affect a specific resource attribute or the total Great Lakes environment —now and in the future," according to the Research News, a monthly publication by the U-M Office of Research Administration.

With that information, decisions by society on uses and exploitation of the resource should become much more meaningful. At least there will be some environmental data and specific indicators to weigh against the economic benefit.

It's something that hasn't been available before and it seems like a most sensible approach to an extremely difficult problem.

'Burning' Ambition

Sen. Birch Bayh's presidential ambitions may have burned up on the hot sands of the Florida beaches.

The Indiana senator has set himself up as prosecutor, judge and jury of ethical standards for the Supreme Court, with substantial prodding from the labor leaders who contribute so handsomely to his campaign coffers. Having been instrumental in blocking confirmation of Judges Haynsworth and Carswell to the Supreme Court, Bayh has been pumped up by a number of national publications as a possible contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

Now it turns out that Bayh has been taking free vacations at two ritzy Miami Beach hotels, courtesy of the management. Ever since he got elected to the Senate back in 1962, Bayh has had a free vacation at the same sunshine spas.

It can be reasonably assumed that the owners of the hotels are expecting some kind of political repayment for their generosity.

In his successful stand against Haynsworth and Carswell, Bayh claimed that he was only interested in their judicial integrity and competence, which are, of course, the proper criterion. He demanded ethical purity of the two judges but, however, is less demanding of himself, suggesting that his reasons for opposition were not connected to ability and honesty.

Bayh also likes to junket around Europe in the spring. This year he couldn't even wait until Congress recessed to fly over to Monaco for a conference, even though the Senate still had important measures up for consideration, which raises the question of his own experience.

Bayh's record indicates that Haynsworth and Carswell were objectionable to him because they could not be counted on to take a pro-labor stand on cases before the high bench.

In other words, they might rule on a case on its legal merits and not on whether it would help the unions.

LEAP FROG

Is It Still Possible To Recruit Heroes?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Francis Gary Powers, the pilot of the U-2 plane, "the black lady of espionage," which was shot down over Soviet territory and captured on May 1, 1960, has just published his long-suppressed account of the famous "incident" that allegedly wrecked a scheduled Summit meeting between Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower.

It is a thrilling story of a daring period in Cold War history in addition to being a fascinating and revealing personal memoir of what it is like to face a Soviet court and survive in Soviet prisons. The contents of the book, however, are something to be dealt with in the literary supplements.

What interests me here is a strange conjunction of circumstances: Powers is coming before the public with what amounts to a chapter of patriotic heroism at a time when the military virtures are selling at an even greater discount than our common stocks.

Powers was in New York the other day, making himself available for interviews. I had one single question I wanted to ask him: "How, in the emotional condition of this country as we enter the Nineteen Seventies, will it be possible for the Army, the Navy, the Air Force or the CIA to recruit young people to do the sort of protective job you did 10 and 15 years ago?"

Powers' answer was qualified, but is was fundamentally heartening. He allowed that recruitment for dangerous missions might be difficult in the college circles that look down on university welcome to the R.O.T.C and carry on like dervishes when patriotic corporations such as Dow Chemical or Minneapolis Honeywell try to interview prospective employes on the campuses.

But he had no fear that the de facto anti-patriotism of some of our "better" people would conquer the whole country. Recruitment of brave individuals outside of the "liberal" orbit would still be possible.

Powers confessed to a preference for the "Eisenhower years" to what has gone on in more recent times. "It was a thrill to me," he said, "that we had a President who was willing to take positive steps to meet dangers."

Make no mistake about it, the U-2 program which so displeased our so-called liberals was absolutely vital to the U.S. At the time it was undertaken nobody, not even the most experienced Russian expert in the CIA, had any idea of what was happening inside the Soviet Union to render the U.S. vulnerable to interconteinental missiles armed with atomic warheads.

The U-2, the product of the inventive genius of the Lockheed Company's Clarence L. "Kelly" Johnson, was a bold answer to the need for something that could fly long spy missions above the range of all known rockets and interceptors.

As Powers puts it, the U-2 had the body of a glider and the power of a jet. When it first took to the skies, it was considered a hazard. To keep it light, each piece of structure had to be a little thinner than a pilot would have liked. It had to be landed with what amounted to bicycle balance, on two wheels. As originally constituted, it had no ejection seat; a pilot, to bail out, had to climb out. The pilots who volunteered to take the U-2s over Russia with delicate photographic equipment in the planes' bellies had been led to belive that the 18-month period of their contracts would outlast what they were flying.

Nevertheless, young men with "flying in their blood" and patriotism in their hearts volunteered to pilot U-2s over Russia, from Pakistan on the east and south Bodo in Norway on the north, and from German and Japanese bases going east and west. Russian missile installations were thoroughly mapped; the U.S. had what it took to preserve itself through the years of the Cold War between the hot wars in Korea and Vietnam.

Today, luckily, the necessary photographic espionage is done by satellites that fly without human pilots. We don't need a constant supply of Nathan Hale - like courage to tell us what we need to know about Russia.

However, robots can't do everything. If, amid the acrid smoke coming from those burning R.O.T.C. buildings, we can not find new Francis Gary Powerses, our days are surely limited as a sovereign nation.

Auto Production Heading Upward

DETROIT (AP)—U. S. auto production continued its upward climb for the sixth successive week as an estimated 177,557 cars rolled off assembly lines this week.

The output compared with the 167,790 cars built in the preceding week and 173,807 in the like week a year ago, according to figures compiled by Automotive News, a trade publication.

On a calendar year to date basis, some 2,986,995 cars have been built to date compared with the 3,599,862 built in the comparable period a year ago.

The truck industry also upped its production schedules for the sixth consecutive week and built 42,798 vehicles compared with 40,611 last week and 34,833 in the like week a year ago.

On the Canadian front, motor vehicle output was trimmed by a holiday, Queen Victoria Day, last Monday.

Strawberry Days Proclamation Set

LANSING (AP)—Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed July 3-5 as Strawberry Days, noting that Michigan ranks among the leaders in national strawberry production. Milliken paid special tribute to "primary strawberry-producing areas" of the state, including southwest Michigan, the Houghton area and Manistee County, where the Fifth Annual Strawberry Festival is slated for July 3-5.

A unique window attraction that has been drawing the attention of many passersby is that prepared by William Cass and placed in the display window at the Needham Electric Company's store. The fixture is in the form of a three arm railroad crossing post, the arms bearing the words "Stop," "Look," "Listen." The arms are operated by a small motor through an arrangement of pulleys and wires, with the motor at the same time turning a disc.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 NT	Pass	4 ♦	Pass

Opening lead — queen of spades.

There wasn't much rhyme or reason behind South's six diamond bid in this deal—he had already spoken his piece, and then some, when he jumped to two notrump. Five diamonds would have been fully adequate.

But you occasionally get lucky, even when you overbid, and South had more than his fair share of luck in this deal. To begin with, West led a spade. Had he led the ace and another heart, the slam would have failed very quickly and ignominiously—but he didn't, and thereby hangs this tale.

Declarer won and observed that there were two sure heart losers. An early and successful club finesse would permit him to discard one of dummy's hearts, but this would accomplish nothing, since he would still haver two hearts in each hand.

Howsver, South also noted that there was a legitimate chance for the slam if he postponed the finesse until much later on.

So, after a round of trumps, he played a spade to the king, ruffed a spade, crossed to dummy with a trump, and ruffed the last spade. He then cashed dummy's remaining trumps to produce this position:

North
♥ Q 9 2
♣ J

West
♥ A 10 7
♣ 8

East
♥ K
♣ K 9 7

South
♥ J
♣ A Q 10

Declarer now led the jack of clubs and overtook it with the queen. When the finesse succeeded, South led the jack of hearts.

There was no defense to this highly unusual end play. If West won, he would have to concede the last two tricks to dummy; if East won, he would have to concede the last two tricks to declarer.

Youthful 'Chemist' Told To Switch Jobs

Dear Ann Landers: I am an amateur chemist, age 15, who has gotten into a little trouble. The neighbor's dog bit me. I decided to give him something to make him sick. I didn't want to kill him, I just wanted to get even. After I prepared a mild arsenic mix I began to worry that it might be fatal. I have changed by mind about giving it to him.

Last night I saw a TV film on pollution and now I don't know how to get rid of this stuff. If I throw it in the toilet it might louse up the sewage purifying plant or the natural waterways. What should I do? — XXX

Dear XXX: Give the "stuff" to a pharmacist. He knows how to dispose of poisonous chemicals. And please find another hobby. A boy whose mind hatches such diabolical schemes shouldn't be fooling around with poisons.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the embattled parent who spoke out for the Beat-Up Generation was superb. Your response was excellent.

I am a physician, the father of six. Four of our children became disrespectful and far out in their mid-teens. They set out to do as they pleased. We tried reasoning, tolerance and compromise. Things went from bad to worse. First it was the oldest, then the plague spread down to the 15-year-old. Finally, in 1968 when all four went simultaneously haywire, I did as you advised — told them to "shape up or ship out." I banished them from the house and said they could return when they were ready to set a decent example for the two younger ones.

One is back home, and a joy to have. Another is almost ready. The other two have a way to go, but they'll make it. The two youngest now know what will happen if they try the same thing. I believe they will be just fine.

The hard line is the best line. It's like surgery — short-term, intense discomfort, but long term, worth it. True, not all operations are successful. Some patients don't survive. But when the surgery is clearly indicated, the greater good usually results. —No Name Please

Dear No Name: Your name is legion, I've had many letters from parents who wrote to say their kids shaped up when they laid down the law. Some won't make it — they'll wind up in serious trouble if they are kicked out, but in my opinion, these alienated kids wouldn't have made it the other way either.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a divorced woman who could pass for 35 in a poorly lit room.

I started to date a fascinating guy who is a couple years my junior. I'm ashamed to tell you that after three dates he "fascinated" me right into the bedroom. Now every time we get together it's the same routine. No conversation — just right to bed. I've tried to bring up subjects that interest him. I've suggested that we see a movie or a play, or a ball game, but it's useless. I want to marry this man but I can't get him to talk about anything. I'm getting disgusted. How can I get him to talk about our future together? — Penny

Dear Penny: Most 40-year-old bachelors would rather rent than buy. Don't be surprised if your romance goes no further than the bedroom. A lady who gives away samples has no right to "get disgusted" because the guy likes the merchandise.

Show Goes On

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — In true "show must go on" fashion, radio station WHFB remained on the air despite a burglary in which some wires were cut and about $15,000 in equipment was stolen.

Police said the thieves gained entry to the radio station early this week by prying open a back door. Officials at the station said two IGM stereo carrousel tape players and a memory programer unit were stolen.

JOB WELL DONE

Thursday evening I had the opportunity to hear the fifth and sixth grade orchestra, the fifth and sixth grade honors choir and the sixth grade band students of our Escanaba Area Elementary Schools.

With all the problems in our country today, it was very refreshing to hear what these students accomplished from the many hours of practice with their respective teachers. As in the past, these teachers, Robert Chase, Erwin Orban, Esther Schumm, Mrs. Beverly Moraco, Mrs. Claire Garrard, David Laakso and John Chown, have been thanked, but I would like to add my thanks for a job well done.

FORGET PREJUDICES

In recent weeks, many people have seen fit to express their opinions about developments in this land of ours, mainly events on the college campus.

First of all, I think there is far, far, too much hatred and prejudice in America, leading to name - calling and other abuses, which in turn leads to disunity. I do not recall at any time in my life where the country was any more divided than it is now, unless it was at the beginning of the Civil War, or or war between the States.

Some minds more intelligent than my own think that we are fast approaching this state again, unless the people decide to embark on a different path. It seems to me that the people who really love their country, will try to at least listen to someone who disagrees with them, so as to reach a reasonable understanding.

The Vietnam War is the key to most of our present troubles in the United States, in my opinion. As long as this war continues, our difficulties will mount instead of diminishing.

Therefore, I think that it is in the interest of every American to see that this war is brought to a speedy end. It is the cause of most of our inflation, high interest rates, unemployment, etc., not to mention the toll in young lives that it has taken.

Any sound thinking American should understand why it is the young who are creating most of the disturbances about the war. After all, they are the ones who have to go and put their lives on the line. The "silent majority," made up mostly of the older generation, keeps talking of peaceful dissent, certainly a thing I am for. However, when you have a lack of communication such as you have presently in the nation, along with name-calling, this does not promote tranquility as I see it.

I think it is about time we all start to forget our petty prejudices here in this land and live and act like Americans were intended to live. If we do not, we may all go down the drain, and the dream of our forefathers will have been in vain.

JESUIT MOVE

LONDON (AP)—The Jesuit House of Studies at Heythrop, Oxfordshire, is expected soon to become a part of London University. The move follows concern expressed at the Vatican Council that theological colleges should be linked with secular universities. The idea is that in future Jesuit and non-Jesuit, Roman Catholic and non-Catholic, teachers and students can approach their theology in an ecumenical setting. The Heythrop library, containing 200,000 rare books, will be available to London University students.

way between Phnom Penh and Saigon.

Cambodian troops, with air support from the South Vietnamese air force, were reported last Sunday to have regained control of the strategically situated city, although strong North Vietnamese forces were still reported in the region.

Sharp Fighting

South Vietnamese troops operating farther north in Cambodia encountered their first sharp fighting Friday in an operation they began three days ago.

Twenty North Vietnamese soldiers and seven government troops were reported killed in the clash six miles inside Cambodia, west of Vietnam's southern Central highlands.

The U.S. Command reported that American and South Vietnamese forces operating together in the fishhook region of Cambodia north of Saigon encountered several light and scattered contacts throughout the zone.

The command said U.S. casualties in the Cambodian offensive officially launched April 29 now total 190 troops killed and 731 wounded.

South Vietnamese losses were reported as more than 60 troops killed and more than 2,000 wounded

The allied commands claim more than 8,500 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers killed.

Rose Loses Trip To Italy

MARQUETTE — Ted Rose, the highest scoring cager in Northern Michigan University history, had his basketball trip to Europe cancelled by the Italian Basketball Federation.

Dick Percadaino, New York representative of the Italian Federation, advised the NMU athletic department of the sudden change in plans less than 24 hours before Rose was to leave here for Europe.

Percadaino said he received the following cablegram message from Italy: "Very sory, cancel reservations for Mr. Rose." He said there was no explanation.

"It is posible," Percadaino added "that they have become interested in another American player."

Percadaino also said he would attempt to "make arrangements with some other team since Ted has indicated his interset in going to Italy.'

The 6' 6" Rose had been slated to report to Milan, the defending champion of the Italian Federation, next Tuesday for a three week tryout and would have appeared with the team in an international tournament in Athens, Greece, in mid-June.

Rose, meanwhile, has left NMU for his home in Louisville, Ky., where he is under contract to the Kentucky Colonels of the American Basketball Association.

Milliken Asks Action On DDT

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William G. Milliken has asked the Agriculture Department to take legal action against any wholesalers and retailers who continue to sell DDT after June 28.

It was last June 27 that the department canceled registration of DDT sales in the state except for public health needs. That action stopped importation of new stocks into the state.

Milliken, in making the request, said he thought one year enough time for wholesalers and retailers to get rid of stocks on hand.

A bill passed earlier by the Senate and now scheduled for House action early next month would limit indoor use of DDT pesticides to licensed operators acting under specific controls.

Italian city-states trading with the Arabs in the Middle Ages followed Moslem examples when they developed the bill of exchange and joint-stock company.

Former Judge Attacks Parochiaid Petition

Michigan could lose upwards of $30 million annually in federal funds for disadvantaged children in public schools if a Constitutional Amendment prohibiting aid to non-public school students is adopted, according to a former federal judge.

John Feikens of Detroit said non-public school students would be unable to participate in various federal programs to aid disadvantaged children if the Constitutional Amendment is adopted.

"If this were to happen, the $30 million Michigan public schools receive—for educationally deprived children, including $12 million to the Detroit schools—could well be cut off," he said.

Total Repeal

"This would happen because the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) of 1965 stipulates that as a condition for receipt of federal funds to public schools they must include educationally deprived children in non-public schools or they do not receive any funds."

Feikens said the effect of the proposed Constitutional Amendment would be to repeal all existing state and federal benefits and services presently being received by children attending non-public schools, with the exception of bus transportation.

"The Constitutional Amendment would repeal the Auxiliary Services Act of 1965 which provides nine specific services for children attending non-public schools," the former federal judge said.

Broad Impact

"These services include such items as street crossing guards to help children cross the street safely, eye and ear testing, remedial reading and speech therapy services and counseling for physically and emotionally handicapped children."

Feikens said the Constitutional Amendment would prohibit shared time programs under which children attending non-public schools are able to attend public schools on a part-time basis to take science courses or vocational education classes.

"The proposed Constitutional Amendment is so broad that non-public school students would be unable to use a public library for school purposes, play athletic contests on public school athletic fields or in public school gymnasiums or take driver training at a public school," he said.

The proposed Constitutional Amendment would prohibit any local governmental unit such as a city, county or township to aid a non-public school either directly or indirectly. This language may well peopardize such essential services as police and fire protection. As the Amendment is now written, Feikens said, it would repeal the existing tax exempt status of non-public schools presently guaranteed by the Michigan Constitution.

Schools Would Close

Adoption of the Constitutional Amendment, Feikens said, "would force 90 per cent of Michigan's 800 non-public schools to close within two years."

"The result would be that the taxpayers of Michigan would be forced to pay an additional $300 million annually to educate non-public school children in public schools," he said. "In addition, it would cost an estimated $1 billion to build new schools or lease or purchase existing non-public schools."

Feikens said that the proposed Constitutional Amendment "would have the same effect as a similar proposal placed on the ballot by the Ku Klux Klan in 1920 and 1924."

"Both Constitutional Amendments placed on the ballot by the Klan would have required every child to be educated in a public school," he said. "The voters defeated the 1920 proposal by a 2-1 vote and the 1924 proposal by a 3-1 vote.

"I would hope this year's proposal—if it is on the ballot—would be defeated by an even larger margin."

U. S. Conflict?

Feikens said the proposed Amendment may be in conflict with both the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the U. S. Constitution," he said.

"We have come a long way in this country to remove the racial test for voting, jobs and housing," the former co-chairman of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission continued.

"It would be tragic indeed if we were to impose a religious test for the receipt of such benefits as eye and ear testing for non-public school students."

Feikens served as a federal judge in Detroit in 1961-62, was co-chairman of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission from 1964-67, and is a past president of the Detroit Bar Association. He presently is a commissioner of the Michigan State Bar Association

Agricultural authorities estimate that up to $100 million in crops may be lost to birds in the United States each year. The Federal Aviation Authority also notes that collisions between birds and planes cost about $10 million annually.

DO YOU REALLY THINK THAT AN HONEST DAY'S WORK IS A SUCKER PROPOSITION?
(The Japanese, Germans & Italians Don't)

If you are one of the millions of Americans who believe this, you are hurting your nation.

All over the world there are other workers trying to take American jobs by taking American customers. They work harder for lower wages, and are using tools just as good as yours. And they produce better bargains.

They haven't "got it made" like you (think you) have. You enjoy your power to get raise after raise without matching productivity. Your managers do what they can to hold the line, but you've got the bit in your teeth and the power to strike the plant. So, somewhere along the line management compromises, agrees to a price-raising wage, and reluctantly asks the customer to pay it.

How long do you think foreign customers will keep on buying your over-priced production? As a matter of hard fact, more and more American customers are switching to imported bargains. Maybe even you, yourself, have stopped buying what you make.

What should you do about it? Stop counting your stage money and get your eye back on the ball—the production ball. Otherwise you might lose the ball game.

RAISES THAT RAISE PRICES RAISE HAVOC

Here's the crystal ball that tells man's economic fortune. Let's spell it out. Man's material welfare (MMW) equals his natural resources (NR) plus the muscular and mental human energy (HE) he applies to them multiplied by the efficiency of his tools (T).

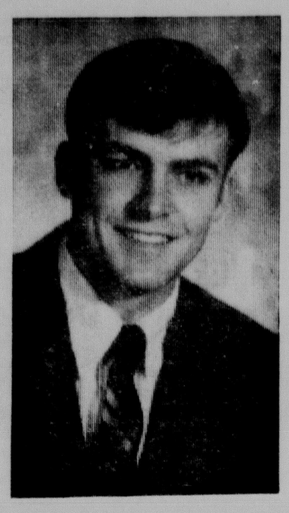

This is PRODUCTION, the source of all economic blessings. You are (HE). For your own sake and everybody else's, keep your eye on the ball.

If you would like to see evidence of the impact that this program is making, ask for our 30th Annual Report.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE BALL!

Officials Review School Closings

By The Associated Press

School officials in Battle Creek and Kalamazoo are debating when to reopen two schools closed after racial flareups.

There were no classes at Battle Creek Central High School Friday and Kalamazoo's South Junior High School was closed at midmorning Friday.

The South closing came after scuffling broke out in the cafeteria between some white students who were holding a meeting there and some black youths who had gathered around them.

Principal John Dunn said about 100 whites then left the school to meet with officials at the School Adminihtration bulding while another 75 to 100 black pupils left their classes and milled about the school's halls. Police were summoned and the school was closed.

Dunn said some windows were broken at the school Thursday after blacks demanded a black culture club and black history courses.

Friday's incident brought no arrests and no one was hurt seriously. The Kalamazoo school has about 1,000 pupils but Dunn said fewer than 200 were involved in the trouble.

One 17-year-old pupil remained hospitalized with a spinal injury Friday in Battle Creek after a melee injured 17 students and one instrumental music instructor at Central High Thursday None of the other injured persons required hospitalization.

Principal Edward Martin said Thursday's outbreak followed false reports that only black pupils were disciplined after a racial disturbance at a nearby junior high. Martin said pupils of both races were punished after the junior high disturbance.

Secretaries Honored On 100th Anniversary

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — This year marks the 100th anniversary of the formal debut of one of the heroines of history—the American female secretary.

So let's salute the little lady, once known as "Miss Typewriter," then "Tillie the Toiler," and now the "Girl Friday."

Can you imagine a world without women? Well, that was virtually what the U.S. business office was like back in 1870, when eight young ladies specially trained by the YWCA here marched on the scene.

Male office workers, who wore celluloid cuff protectors and wrote with quill pens, nearly fell off their high stools laughing at these determined girls, prim in long black skirts, high-button shoes and mutton-sleeve white blouses.

But their laughter soon died. The girls proved remarkably efficient at the big, clumsy typewriters of that day.

"By the end of the Gay Nineties only 22 per cent of secretarial jobs were still in male hands," said Robert Murray, an executive with The Edison Voicewriter firm. "And today of course, an overwhelming majority of the nation's 2½ million or more of the nation's secretaries and stenographers are women." This first great feminist victory in America is far from over. Forseeing a need of at least 200,000 additional secretaries a year for some time, Murray said:

"Automation, far from making the secretarial role obsolete, has brought about an office revolution which has catapulted the 'Girl Friday' to an envied position," said Murray.

Today's successful secretary is far more than a meek mouse who has moved her workshop from the kitchen to the office. She dresses like a debutante, has her own apartment, visits swank summer resorts, skis in winter if she chooses, and more and more acts as a trusted confidante and alter ego to her boss.

"Between 1955 and 1969," Murray pointed out, "those earning over $100 weekly rose from five per cent to more than 30 per cent. Top secretaries command salaries of $10,000, and some move into the executive brackets.

"Almost one in five now enjoys a three-week vacation; six per cent get four weeks off."

Few actually marry their boss, but at least they don't have to sit on their hands at home waiting for the boy next door to propose.

Campus Recess Urged By Levin

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan colleges and universities should recess for two weeks before the November election so students can work for candidates, says Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley.

Levin, seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, made the remark at Michigan State University. He also said students should work to cut off funds for American military action in Cambodia and Vietnam; start a campus movement in support of lowering the voting age to 18, including a peaceful march on the state Capitol; and support a bill which would exempt Michigan residents from serving in undeclared wars.

Levin said, "It is becoming clear now that we will never stop this war by protests only... If we want to stop this war, we must have new kinds of demonstrations—demonstrations of political power."

He said young people represent "the largest potenitial voting bloc in the United States."

Mystery Girl In Kent Photo Was Runaway

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The mystery girl photographed leaning over the body of a student shot down at Kent State University has been found by juvenile authorities and identified as a 15-year-old runaway from Opa Locka, Fla.

Juvenile officials said she is Mary Ann Vecchio, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Vecchio, recognized her in a widely published Associated Press photograph.

Miss Vecchio talked with her mother and father by telephone Thursday night and told them: "I want to go home."

Her parents said they would come to Indianapolis and accompany her to Florida.

Miss Vecchio said that after running from Florida she hitchhiked and begged money and food. In Kent, Ohio, she said, she heard there was going to be an antiwar protest and went to the university campus.

"We were sitting in front of a building chatting when the guardsmen moved on us with gas," Miss Vecchio said "We ran around the building, then down to an open field, or maybe it was a parking lot."

When the guardsmen began shooting, she said, "I rolled down the hill and tried to hide behind a newspaper stand. That's when I saw the man go down. I ran over to him.

Three other students, two of them coeds, also were killed.

U.S. To Extend War, Tass Says

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet news commentator predicted Friday night that "Washington is going to continue" the Vietnam war for five more years.

He based his conclusions on objections raised by the U.S. government to Ford Motor Co. helping build a Soviet truck plant.

The article by Leonid Velichansky, a commenttor for the official Soviet news gency Tass was the first public Soviet response to Ford's announcement nine days ago that it was turning down a Soviet bid for assistance at the truck plant on the Kama River.

Velichansky wrote that U.S. Defense Secreatry Melvin Laird had opposed U.S. participation on grounds that trucks produced there might be sent to Communist—led troops in Vietnam and used against U.S. forces there.

The article said the plant would not be in production before 1974 and "one is led to conclude from Mr. Laird's statement that Washington is going to continue the war for five more years."

Young People Help Form Draft Policy

By DON HOENSHELL
Panax Staff Writer

LANSING — Young people are already telling Michigan's military draft system what they think.

No firebombs or marches, broken windows or sit-ins.

They sit around a polished table at Michigan Selective Service Headquarters a couple of miles from the capitol and try to weave the troubles of youth into the regulations.

And here's one of them — a Michigan State University coed who has eight brothers, who hates war as much as anybody.

Mary Ann O'Brien, of Mason, is one of the 13 student advisers to Col. Arthur A. Holmes, state Selective Service director in a little-known program that has been going on since early 1969.

"They're Listening"

She's excited that the Establishment is asking young people all over the country to help think out the problems of maintaining a military with the draft system.

"It's great that they're listening," she said. "That's what impressed me the most."

Holmes said that Michigan was selected by retired Selective Service Chief General Lewis B. Hershey as one of five pilot program states to create a youth advisory group for the state director.

The early success of the program brought an order for every state and some territories to do the same. Holmes thinks the idea — and the young people — are great.

"I'm satisfied that they're getting their feet on the ground and are coming up with constructive criticisms, rather than criticizing for the sake of criticism," he said.

Given Guidance

"I think the administration is getting a lot of guidance from these young people. Some of their ideas have been made into presidential policy.

"Others will take a presidential proclamation or a change in federal law and they'll take more time. But the value these people bring to the system is more real than symbolic."

Mary Ann has been a member of the group since February. Here's how the program works:

Washington develops in writing a hypothetical case history describing a problem. State youth advisers noodle it out and make recommendations. The reports from all states are studied and a correlated report is made.

Takles Issues

The Michigan group has tackled student deferments, the draft lottery and other issues. Now it is working on public information.

"We're trying to find out what the public actually knows or thinks about selective service," Mary Ann said. "We go out in the field for our research to get all the facts we can."

Holmes, a veteran army man, said the advisery group closes the communications gap between the generations but, more importantly, it provides fresh ideas in an area likely to be bogged down in the status quo.

"They formulate opinions and ideas, particularly on problems that are bothering young people," he said. "And they have inspired some changes in policies, in the physical examination process, for example.

Opposes Deferments

"They have told us that student deferments should be changed and the draft lottery would be a lot more equitable. This is a great service they are doing."

Mary Ann figures she might be as radical as some others, but has different ideas on how to bring about change.

"At first I was skeptical," she said. "What could a youth do to change the Establishment?

"The important thang is that they're listening. It's great. There's no way we can impose radical change but we can work to make things better.

"There's a lot of misunderstanding. Some young people think the draft boards themselves are bad. Actually, the local people are so much for the registrants. They're there to help.

"The people at Selective Service represent the Establishment, of course, but they're listening. There are a lot of inequities in the system, but there are in any system."

Mary Ann's interest includes her eight brothers, of course. Her father, Mason City Attorney John O'Brien, is a Selective Service appeals agent.

A Farm Life Close-Up

Living on a farm is a way of life that fits in a class all of its own.

There is something wonderful about farm life that is difficult to put into words. A person who has never experienced this type of living might find it difficult to understand how a life of hard work and few rewards can in fact be so rewarding. The majority of the people who were born and raised and make their living from the farm are a hard working honest class of people.

Such is the case with Al Gareau and his family. The Gareaus own and operate a 300-acre farm in the Flat Rock area of Delta County. This farm would be considered somewhat larger than the average farm for this particular area.

Gareau owns 65 to 70 head of cattle, including 35 holstein milk cows, and raises enough hay, oats, and corn for his own feeding purposes. He owns an $8,000 self-propelled combine that he uses for his crops and several other farms in the area. Tractor prices average about $5,000, silos about $1,500, conveyor type barn cleaning equipment, $1,000, milking and processing equipment, and the list goes on and on.

Profitable farming requires a lot of expensive equipment. Modern machinery has made the work load a lot lighter and allows the farmer more time, but it still takes a lot of hard work to operate a farm.

Gareau was recently presented with the "Outstanding Young Farmer of the Year" award for Delta County by the Escanaba Area Jaycees.

Selection for this award is based on an individual's ability to successfully manage and operate his own farm, and those considered must be under the age of 35.

Al was born and raised on the farm and took it over from his father. He and his wife, Sandy, have two sons, Michael, 5, and Jeffery, 1. The Gareau family enjoys life on the farm and has no desire to live elsewhere.

"After haying season is over" Al said, "I will have some extra time for painting or fixing up. There's always plenty of work that piles up."

Al goes about his daily work routine with a feeling of proudness and peace of mind that is quite enviable.

Pointing to the manure spreader, Al laughingly said, "this is the only piece of equipment I own that the company won't stand behind, at least not while it's running."

The day starts bright and early on the Gareau farm and Al usually finishes up around 6 p. m. "After supper," he said, "I like to spend the evening doing yard work or gardening."

Al and his wife are vice presidents of the Delta Merry Mixers Square Dance Club and attend the dances quite regularly.

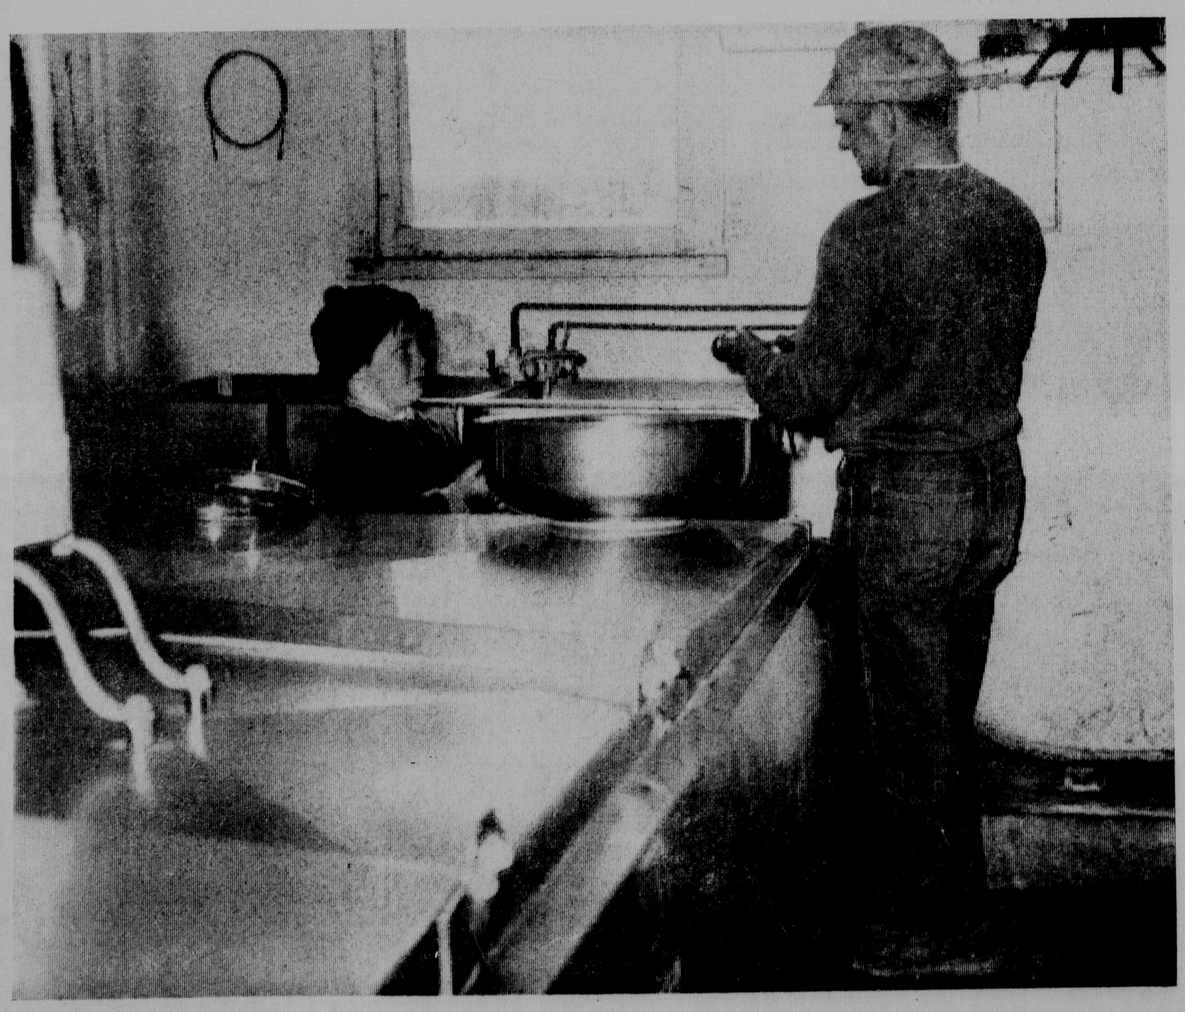

Delta County residents have a right to be proud of the Gareau family and others like them for their effort in making our area a better place to live.

Tiger Bullpen Saves Win

DETROIT (AP) — Maybe the Washington Senators haven't heard how lousy the Detroit Tiger bullpen has been this season.

Or maybe Tiger reliever Fred Scherman hasn't heard either.

Scherman picked up his first major league save, retiring six of the final seven Washington batters Friday night, as the Tigers edged the Nats 3-2 to win their third game in the last four tries.

He said afterwards that he just hasn't been able to capitalize on his opportunities so far this year.

"I just try to do my best every time," said the 25-year-old second-year Tiger who had an 0-1 record and 7.20 earned-run-average in 10 innings prior to Friday.

Brunet Pitches

The Tigers and Senators were scheduled to meet again today with Mike Kilkenny, 2-1, expected to pitch for Detroit against George Brunet, 3-4.

A two-run double by Willie Horton in the third inning following a costly error by Washington first baseman Mike Epstein opened the door to the victory.

Horton, noted for being a slugger, has only four home runs so far this year but he is batting .311 and has been stroking numerous singles and doubles (8) with ease.

"I'm just trying to stay in there, really," he said.

Meanwhile starting Tiger pitcher Joe Niekro almost stayed in there. He scattered seven hits for seven innings before an eighth inning rally brought in Scherman.

Niekro, 4-3, won his first game in the last four decisions but said "I didn't have as good stuff tonight as the last times out."

"But I used more different pitches and kept the batters off balance," he added.

Early Lead

Detroit staked him to a 2-0 lead in the third when loser Jim Hannan, 0-1, walked Al Kaline with two out and Jim Northrup followed with a ground smash to Epstein. The ball bounced on the line past the Senator first baseman for a two-base error and Horton followed with his double.

Kaline knocked in Detroit's final run off reliever Horacio Pina in the seventh with a sacrifice fly after Mickey Stanley walked, stole second and went to third on a bunt single by Dalton Jones.

Niekro gave up a solo homer to Bernie Allen in the fourth and in the eighth Frank Howard and Epstein singled to knock him from the mound. Scherman gave up a single to pinch hitter Rick Reichardt scoring the second Washington run, then blanked them the rest of the way.

It wasn't the first time Scherman faced Washington hitters. Last year he pitched against several of the same batters as a member of the International League All-Star team. He was with Toledo then and the All-Stars played an exhibition against the Senators in Louisville, Ky.

CLOSE AT HOME — Detroit's Mickey Stanley crosses the plate scoring the Tigers first run under the watchful eye of home plate umpire Bill Kunkel. Andy Etchebarren, Baltimore's catcher, was late on the tag and Stanley scored during the third inning when Willie Horton singled to left field. The action came during the first game of Thursday's doubleheader. The Tigers and Orioles split the two games. (AP Wirephoto)

Nagel Reinstated At Iowa

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — "The future looks very bright," said Ray Nagel after being reinstated Friday night as University of Iowa football coach only four days after he had been relieved of his duties.

"Iowa has the greatest fans and friends in the country," said the 43-year-old Nagel, "and we're looking forward to the coming season with enthusiasm."

The university's Board in Control of Athletics announced Tuesday it had relieved Nagel of his duties and accepted the resignation of Athletic Director Forest Evashevski, both actions effective June 30. The board voted to fire Nagel at a special meeting Monday night.

The action came not long after disclosure that the state auditor's office was investigating falsified expense accounts filed by assistant football coaches.

The disclosure was the latest development in a long feud between Nagel and Evashevski, reporetdly centered on Evashevski's dissatisfaction with the conduct of the football program.

Nagel told a news conference Wednesday he was told he had been fired because of "disharmony" in the department. He said he was "shocked and incensed" at the action and demanded a full explanation.

The athletic board met Friday night and voted to reinstate Nagel for the duration of his present five-year contract, which expires Dec. 31.

Lasher Traded To Cleveland

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers announced Friday they have sent relief pitcher Fred Lasher to the Cleveland Indians in exchange for two players to be assigned outright to the Toledo Mud Hens of the Innternational League, the Tigers' top farm club.

Lasher will be replaced on the Detroit roster by Daryl Patterson, who is returning from active duty in the military.

In exchange for Lasher, the Mud Hens will receive outfielder Russ Nagelson, 25, who has been with the Indians all season, and southpaw pitcher Bill Rohr, 24, who has played this year at the Indians' Wichita farm club of the American Association.

Lasher, 28, came to the Tigers in 1967 after several years in the Minnesota Twins farm system. In two full seasons and parts of two others with the Tigers, Lashers record is 10-6 with a 3.59 earned run average. So far this season, he is 1-3 with three saves to his credit.

Softball League To Open Sunday

The Escanaba softball league will swing into action Sunday with four games on tap. The games will be played at 2, 3:30, 5 and 6:30 p.m. at the Memorial Field.

This season could produce one of the best leagues in recent years, as nine teams will be involved for the league championship.

The Escanaba Merchants will be back again this year with Bill McGovern and Tony Derkos on the mound. Bob Corriveau, Keith Glusing and Jan Morin should keep the Merchants in the running for the title.

Flat Rock will have Bill Smith pitching, with several good players returning to field a veteran team in the league.

The Jolly Rogers Bar, last years Class C Champions, will have Jug Bourdeau on the mound and an all brother infield including the hot glove and quick hands of Jim Bourdeau to defend their title.

Trenary, last years runner up in Class C, will have the services of Sonney Pasanin pitching and from reports, he is going to be tough on the mound again this year. Trenary has picked up the services of big Pat Groleau behind the plate and they have a few other boys that can be a threat at the plate, and could be real tough overall.

Goebel's, last years Strohs team, will also be in the running for top honors with such players as Jim Almonroeder, Bob Irish and John Way.

Mead Paper Co. will have three fine pitchers with Dale Bittner, Ron Smith and Rick Lancour. Overall they will have a well balanced team and will be making a strong bid for first place.

The Escanaba Independents could be the dark horse in the league. If veteran Pat Moran returns to handle the pitching duties and with the strong bats of Ben Yagodzinski, Doug Moss, Phil Dambrsia, and Ken and Lee Robitaille the Independents will be tough.

A new team in the league, the Gladstone Merchants, will have alot of young players and they will be making their first bid for the league title along with the Michigan Hotel, who has picked up several new players and they will have Harold Polath on the mound and the good glove and bat of Bunny Martin.

Overall, it shapes up to be quite a year for the league.

Frank Howard, the 6-foot-7, 270-pound giant of a leftfielder for Washington, actually tried to steal a base Friday. He almost made it, too, but second base umpire Bill Kunkel said shortstop Cesar Gutierrez tag on a throw from pitcher Joe Niekro was in time on the first-inning play.

Merritt Wins Duel; Reds Top Houston 5-2

By The Associated Press

The duel in the Dome didn't quite measure up to its billing, but Jim Merritt will settle for the same finish all summer long.

Merritt, Cincinnati's gifted left-hander, and Houston fireballer Larry Dierker, put 8-2 records on the line in an eye to-eyeball pitching confrontation at the Astrodome Friday night.

The Reds battered Dierker for 11 hits in seven innings, but Merritt weathered 10 in going the distance for a 5-2 victory that made him the first nine-game winner in the majors this season.

"I don't expect to keep this pace up, naturally," said Merritt, "but every game we win now, we don't have to win in September. Nine wins? It's a great feeling, and I hope I win every start I make."

Lead By 6½

The victory, coupled with Los Angeles' 1-0 loss to Atlanta, gave the Rdes a 6½-game bulge over the second place Dodgers in the National League West. San Francisco slugged San Diego 9-4; the Chicago Cubs topped the New York Mets 6-4; St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 6-3 and Montreal whipped Pittsburgh 6-3 in other NL action.

Merritt struck out six on the way to his third consecutive victory and eighth in his last nine decisions as the Reds handed Houston its fourth loss in a row.

"I've been fortunate," he said. "I've had some runs to work with and I've been fairly consistent.

"I struggled a bit tonight. It wasn't my stuff. It was my rhythm. I felt a little awkward out there. Against Dierker, I felt one run would be the difference and I was going to try to hold them as close as I could. I'm sure Dierker felt the same way."

"They just hit my mistakes," said the Houston ace, who struck out eight but was hit freely before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh. His earned run average soared to 3.08 while Merritt's dipped to 2.60.

Tony Perez and rookie Bernie Carbo each socked Dierker's mistakes for homers as the Reds overcame an early 1-0 deficit. Perez, ending an 0-for-11 famine, touched off a three-ran Cincinnati burst in the fourth with his 14th homer of the year. Carbo's seventh homer, a tape-measure shot with the bases empty in the sixth, wound up the scoring.

Dodgers Blanked

Pat Jarvis stopped Los Angeles on five hits and Hank Aaron drove in the Braves' run with a third-inning single off rookie Sandy Vance.

Felix Millan's single, also in the third, was the only other hit off Vance in the seven innings he pitched.

Ken Henderson's second grand slam homer of the season, an eighth inning shot off Tom Dukes, wrapped up the Giants' victory over San Diego. Catcher Dick Dietz, who committed two run-costing passed balls in the first inning, bounced back with a two-run homer in the fifth that sent the Giants ahead to stay.

Jim Hickman delivered three runs with a homer and double as the Cubs subdued the Mets behind Jim Colborn's one-hit relief pitching over the final 4 1-3 innings.

Julian Javier snapped a 3-3 deadlock in the eighth with a three-run double, carrying the Cardinals past Philadelphia. The Phillies had tied the game in the seventh on Johnny Briggs' two-run triple.

Mack Jones' two-run homer and a two-run triple by Jim Fairey helped Montreal build a 6-1 lead behind the five-hit pitching of Bill Stoneman.

Weiskopf Takes Second Round Lead At Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Chuck Courtney, a quiet Californian, had barely begun his second round in the $125,000 Atlanta Golf Classic Friday when tall Tom Weiskopf took control at the halfway point with an 11-under-par 133.

Courtney, a 29-year-old bachelor who joined the PGA tour in 1964, fashioned his second straight 67 over the hilly, 7,053-yard Atlanta Country Club course as sweltering 90-degree heat baked the fairways, greens and players for the second straight day.

Courtney's 134 total gave him second place by two shots over a trio deadlocked at 136 -Gary Player, Tommy Aaron and Dan Sikes, whose 65 was the low score of the second round.

"I always feel pressure," said Courtney. "Anybody that says they don't are just kidding themselves. But the secret is Arnold Palmer's secret when he was playing so well. You've got to get fired up without getting nrvous."

Asked if he hoped to catch Weiskopf in today's third round, Courtney smiled and replied, "I'd like to catch him Sunday."

That's pay day, with $25,000 going to the champion, an amount only $85 less than Courtney won in 1967—his best money-winning year on the tour.

"I hit my irons extremely close to the hole all day," said Courtney. "I feel like I'm hitting the putts greatl but they're just not going in. I hit all the greens on the back side but had a couple lip outs."

Meanwhile, Weiskopf had added a 68 to his opening round 65, stringing out nine straight pars on the back after knocking in four birdies going out.

"I think its the best two rounds I've put together since I've been on the tour," said the 6-foot-3 Weiskopf. "I continued to putt well, had some good lags and I kept hitting it to the pin."

Player, the little South African, was charging for the lead after turning the first nine in 32, four under par.

"I had it going so well," Player said, as he thought of what might have been. "I think No. 10 prevented me from shooting 64."

It was on No. 10 that Player missed a two-foot putt that would have given him another birdie.

"I got a little shook up," he said. "I missed another two-footer at 16 and took a bogey. I guess I just ran out of gas putting on the back side."

Two Atlanta Classic champions, Bert Yancey in 1969 and Bob Lunn in 1968, were deadlocked at 137 with veteran Kel Nagle.

Jack Nicklaus, who sank an 80-foot putt for an eagle on the 577-yard No. 8, and Lee Elder stood at 138.

Eight players were lodged at 139, including Homero Blancas who skied to a 74 after sharing the first round lead at 65. Others at 139 were John Schroeder, Arnold Palmer, Frank Beard, Doug Sanders, George Knudson, Lou Graham and Larry Hinson.

It took a score of one-over-par 145 or better to survive the cut for the final 3 holes today and Sunday, with 74 players on or under the mark.

Pacers Can Win ABA Title Today

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The Indiana Pacers can capture the American Basketball Association championship today by beating the Los Angeles Stars as the best-of-7 playoff series returns to Indianapolis.

And the Stars' coach, Bill Sharman, is among the first to admit his team has had a hard time handling the Pacers, who have a 3-1 lead.

"We have to get an extra special job to handle these guys," Sharman said. "They've got everything—speed, size, shooting depth, balance, you name it."

Coach Bob Leonard says his Pacers aren't taking the Stars for granted.

"Los Angeles is not coming here just to see the playoffs come to an end," Leonard said. "Sharman has done a great job with that ball club."

Ohio State Eyes Baseball Crown

CHICAGO (AP)— The Buckeyes of Ohio State virtually clinched the Big Ten baseball title Friday with a doubleheader sweep against Wisconsin.

Ohio State ran its perfect record to 12-0 with 8-7 and 5-3 triumphs over the Badgers to take a full game lead over idle Minnesota which has a 13-3 record.

Despite the outcome of weekend competition, the final results of the race cannot be determined since Ohio State still must act on a pair of postponed doubleheaders.

The Buckeyes, because of campus disturbances, called off doubleheaders against Michigan and Michigan State earlier in the season. If these games are made up, their results will determine finally the race in which the Big Ten champion automatically qualifies for the NCAA playoffs.

If these games are not rescheduled, Ohio State, which handed Minnesota two of its three losses, will win the conference title even if the Buckeyes drop a pair to Northwestern which has a 1-13 record.

Michigan downed Illinois twice 6-1 and 3-1 as pitcher Pete Helt yielded only four hits in the opener and drove in the winning run with a single. Pitcher Mickey Elwood tossed a four-hitter in the nightcap and added his own cause with a double and a single.

Purdue downed Michigan State twice 5-1 and 2-1 and Indiana slugged Northwestern twice, 12-3 and 11-1.

Lamberg

In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, Arthur Lamberg, suddenly killed four years ago, May 23, 1966:

We do not need a special day,
To bring him to our minds.
The days we do not think of him
Are very hard to find.
Within our store of memories,
He holds a place apart
For no one else should ever be
More cherished in our hearts.

Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Brothers and Sisters

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the many friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us during the hours of our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Lawrence E. Klug. Especially do we thank the Rev. Philip Lyon for his comforting words, the choir, those who contributed floral and memorial offerings and other tokens of sympathy.

Chance's Homecoming Party Spoiled; Yanks Blast Tribe

By The Associated Press

Dean Chance Night turned into a nightmare for the Cleveland right-hander with his Indians' teammates acting like strangers and the New York Yankees getting all the gifts.

Chance, obtained by the Indians from Minnesota over the winter, was the recipient of a welcome home night from his friends in his hometown of Wooster, Ohio, but lasted only three innings as the Yankees whipped the Indians 7-4 Friday night.

The 28-year-old Chance, was ripped for three first inning runs, including a two-run homer by Roy White but was victimized by a leaky Cleveland defense in the third when the Yanks added three more runs on three errors.

In other American League games, Baltimore ripped Boston 7-4, California edged Minnesota 3-2, Oakland nipped Chicago 9-8 Detroit edged Washington 3-2 and Kansas City thumped Milwaukee 6-3.

"That one bad defensive inning killed us," said Alvin Dark, the Indians' pilot. "This was the first time this year we played bad defensively."

Unearned Runs

In all the Indians made five errors. All three third-inning runs off Chance, 1-4, who was rocked for eight hits in his brief stint, were unearned.

The Yanks, on the other hand, "were great defensively," Dark said. Gene Michael (Yankee shortstop) made three plays that were on the verge of being truly great."

Winner Fritz Peterson struggled to his sixth victory against two defeats but needed sixth-inning relief from Jack Aker. Tony Horton had a solo homer for the Indians.

Boog Powell's 12th homer of the season broke a sixth-inning deadlock and the Orioles added a pair in the eighth on hits by Brooks Robinson and Dave Johnson. Powell added a pair of doubles while George Scott ripped a homer and two doubles and Tony Conigliaro stroked four straight hits for the Red Sox.

Twins Beaten

Ken McMullen and Jim Spencer drilled home runs as the Angels snapped Minnesota's winning streak at seven and edged to within one-half game of first place in the West.

McMullen and Spencer each 6-3 with the eventual winning run coming across on left-hander Clyde Wright's seventh inning single. Wright, 6-2, needed relief help in the eighth from Paul Doyle, who surrendered a solo homer to Rick Renick.

Felipe Alou's two-run double enabled the A's to tie the White Sox at 8-8 in the eighth inning and moments later Alou scored the winner as Chicago's right fielder John Matias dropped Don Mincher's fly ball.

The A's overcame an 8-1 Chicago lead with four-run rallies in the sixth and eighth innings. Chicago had a six-run first, capped by Ed Herrmann's three-run homer and Carlos May added a two-run belt in the fourth.

Bob Oliver drove in a pair of runs with a bases-loaded single and scored two tallies in the Royals' triumph. Mike Walton, the Brewers hard-hitting outfielder, drew five straight bases on balls.

Attend the Church of Your Choice

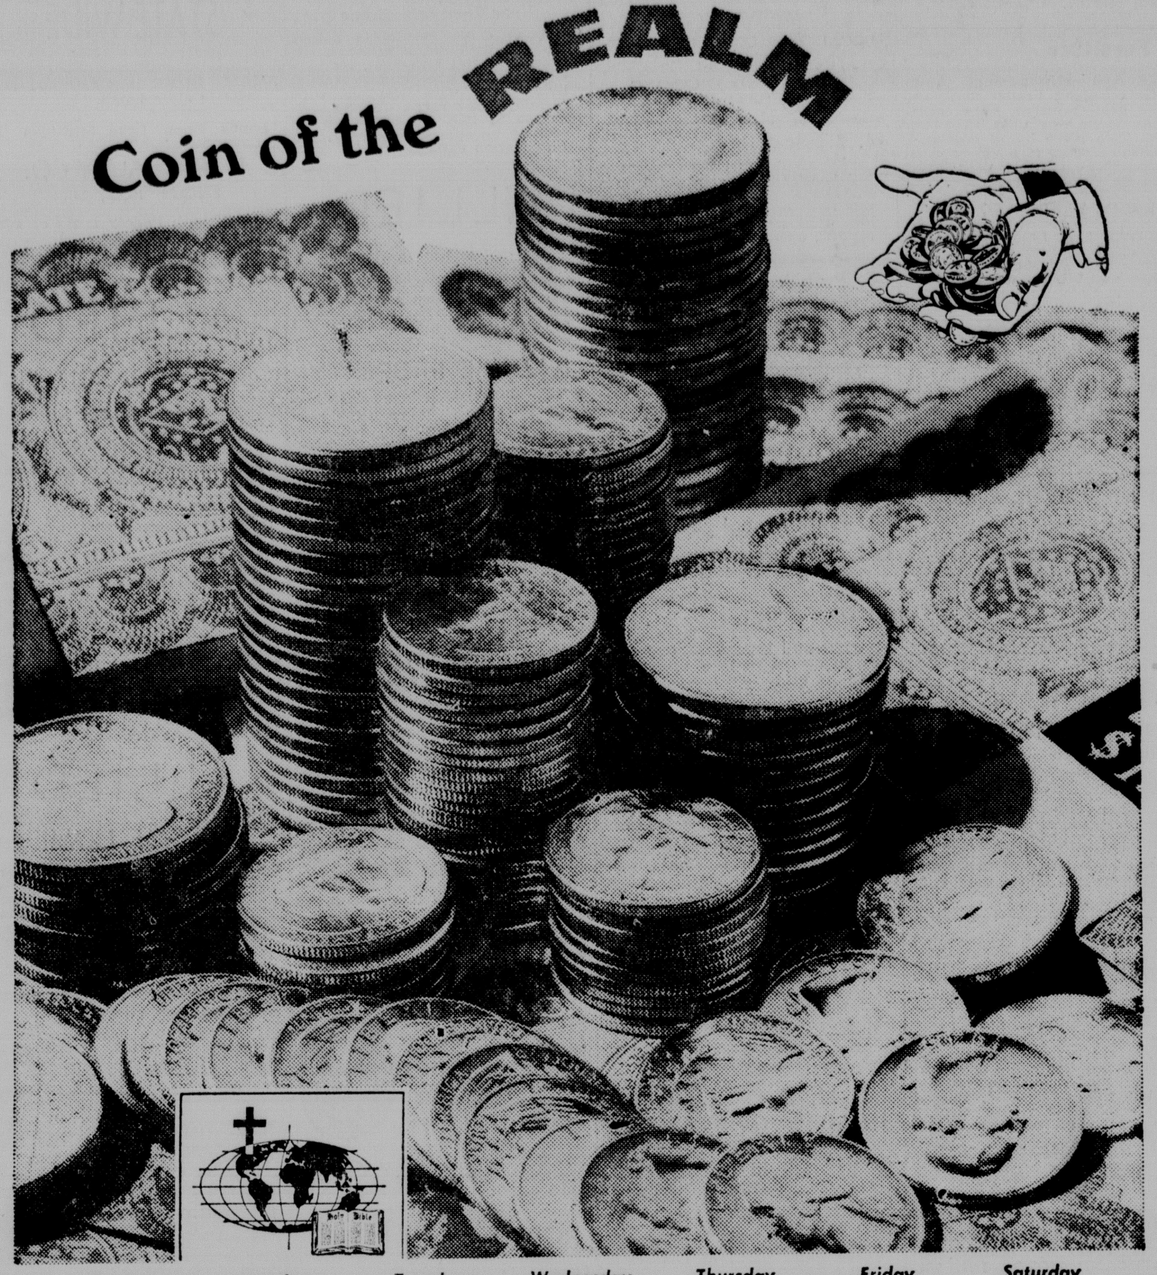

Money, money, money. Sometimes it seems that all people talk about is money. Some hoard it, others let it slip through their fingers. But, whether spender or saver, no one is unmindful of it.

Sometimes it seems as though even in church we hear too much about money. Isn't that the one place where money shouldn't be mentioned at all?

No.

It isn't money that is at fault, but our attitude toward it. In earlier times, we gave of our services, trading one thing for another. Today we use money as a medium of exchange. It is the spirit in our use of that exchange, in both our spending and saving, that counts.

So, give to the church of your choice. Give generously, if you can. But even if you can't give — go.
